RUM CHARGES LEAD PRATT TO SEEK SUBPENA

POLICE HEAD DENIES LIQUOR DATA RECEIPT

INQUIRY NECESSARY, U. S. ATTORNEY TOLD

Indication at Office Is That Superintendent's Plea Will Be Granted.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, Superintendent of Police, yesterday called on United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover to have Daniel E. O'Connell, city editor of the Washington Times, produce before the grand jury evidence in support of his charges that two police captains and several privates were engaged in the liquor racket.

Maj. Pratt called the attention of the district attorney to testimony given by Mr. O'Connell in the trial of Policeman Robert F. Langdon.

The police superintendent quoted from a Times news account of the Times editor's testimony that Mr. O'Connell had "information indicating that about 'seven members of the Metropolitan Police Department, including two captains, were reported engaged in liquor law violations.'".

Receipt of Data Denied.

The Police Department never has had any information from Mr. O'Connell "or any other representative of the Times, as to the information which he testified as having been received," Maj. Pratt told Mr. Rover, and said the interests of justice demanded that the serious allegations should be investigated, and proper action taken "for the purpose of developing the identity of the members of this department" involved in the charges.

Although Mr. Rover had not received the letter yesterday, it was indicated that the request of the police chief would be agreed to and the editor called before the grand jury to substantiate the charges.

Langdon claimed that he was "framed" in his trial in court and was acquitted by a jury after brief deliberation. He was charged with having several gallons of whisky in his automobile with the intent to deliver it to a prospective customer. He was arrested by prohibition agents as the result of information furnished by editors and reporters of the Times. Despite his acquittal in court the policeman will have to face the Police Trial Board on charges of unbecoming conduct, and, if convicted, may be dismissed from the police force. His trial is to take place next Wednesday, but he may ask for a postponement to prepare his defense.

Letter Given in Full.

Maj. Pratt's letter demanding that the Times editor be forced to lay his evidence of graft before the grand jury follows:

"Mr. Dear Mr. Rover:

"My attention has been called to an article in the Washington Times of yesterday (inclosed herewith) in which Mr. Dan E. O'Connell is alleged to have testified in the trial of the case against Private Robert F. Langdon of this department that he had information indicating that about 'seven members of the Metropolitan Police Department, including two captains, were reported engaged in liquor law violations.'

"I am bringing this statement of O'Connell's to your attention with advice that the department has never had any information from Mr. O'Connell or any other representative of the Times as to the information which he testified as having been received, and due to the seriousness of the allegations made by him, in his testimony, against two officials and several privates in the department, I believe—in the interest of justice—he should be subpenaed to appear before the grand jury for the purpose of developing the identity of the members of this department charged by him, and such evidence as he may have tending to prove the charges.

"I know that I will have your hearty cooperation in this matter.

"With best wishes, I remain,

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY G. PRATT,
"Major and Superintendent."

Woman and Son Held In Arkansas Rum Drive

Hope, Ark., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A 60-year-old mother and her son were among nine persons, five white and four Negro, arrested in a roundup of alleged liquor law violators by Federal prohibition agents here today.

The mother, Mrs. Caledonia Burns and her son, Glen, were charged with possession and sale of liquor. Others arrested faced similar charges.

Annulment Awaited In Ileana Betrothal

of Roumania, whose wedding to Count Alexander von Hochberg has been postponed, according to official advices from Bucharest. Only Ileana saw the count off when he left the Roumanian capital.

Formal Action Expected When She and Marie Return From Trip.

Bucharest, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Postponement of the wedding of Princess Ileana of Roumania and Count Alexander von Hochberg is the only official answer in Roumania to reports that their engagement, which the princess herself announced some weeks ago, had been broken off definitely.

Premier Maniu today conferred at length with Queen Marie, mother of the princess, and afterward summoned newspaper correspondents to his office. He told them that the government desired that the incident should not be discussed.

He said the government was investigating the antecedents of Count von Hochberg in Germany, and was seeking further information about him. He added that if the Roumanian government found anything reflecting dishonor upon the count, it would intervene and advise against maintenance of the engagement.

The premier said that the government generally did not feel entitled to interfere in affairs of the royal family except when the crown prince or the heir apparent was affected.

Royal circles have maintained strict secrecy about the engagement, but an air of constraint was noted at the palace. It generally is expected that an announcement annulling the engagement will be made when Queen

VARE TO HEAD FULL TICKET IN PRIMARY

PETITIONS TO CIRCULATE

St. Lucie, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—William S. Vare will lead a complete factional ticket in the coming Pennsylvania primary, it was indicated here today at the close of a series of conferences with Philadelphia Republican leaders.

"Mr. Vare intends to fight the opposition all the way," declared James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Philadelphia city Republican committee, who made it known that Mr. Vare now is considering a list of probable candidates for various offices.

Mr. Hazlett, who came here with State Senator Samuel W. Salus, of Philadelphia, for the "war council," said that suggestions had been given to Mr. Vare for men to fill "several offices" and that in some instances more than one man had been suggested for each office. He asserted Mr. Vare had not given any indication of whom he favored but required "time to think it over."

W. R. Douglas, Mr. Vare's secretary, said Mr. Vare had not changed his

SERVICES DISAGREE ON PAY RAISE STUDY

HOOVER GIVEN REPORT

Released yesterday at the suggestion of President Hoover, reports and counter reports on salary increases for commissioned officers of the Army and Navy, disclosed a marked split between the United States Bureau of Efficiency and the two services.

In a memorandum to the President, William H. McReynolds, acting chief of the Efficiency Bureau, set forth a pay raise schedule for the naval and military officers, the Coast Guard officers, Public Health Service and Coast and Geodetic Survey averaging 41.3 per cent submitted to the interdepartmental pay board.

In an analysis of the figures the Efficiency Bureau contrasted the salaries, on a basis of years of service, of the Governmental officers with engineers, college professors and commercial employes.

The bureau's report disclosed that in the first three years of service,

Hughes Decides Procedure For Taking Oath of Office

New Chief Justice to Follow Same Course He Adopted When He First Went on Bench; Holmes Probably Will Officiate.

(Associated Press.)

Chief Justice Hughes, who called at the White House yesterday to thank the President for selecting him as head of the Supreme Court as the successor of William Howard Taft, has tentatively decided to adopt, on entering his duties as Chief Justice, the course he followed when he became associate justice.

In the robing room of the court, according to present plans, he will, on February 24, before the court meets, take the constitutional oath of allegiance.

After the court crosses the corridor from the robing room and goes on the bench the new Chief Justice will take the judicial oath.

It is expected that both oaths will be administered by Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the senior associate, who, in March, will celebrate his eighty-ninth birthday, and who, during the illness of Mr. Taft, was Acting Chief Justice.

After the judicial oath is administered, Mr. Hughes will take his seat in the middle of the bench and the court will proceed with its business. No other formalities will mark the occasion. The court plans to make public the letter sent to Mr. Taft expressing its regret over his resignation, and the reply in which Mr. Taft told of his sorrow that illness had compelled him to retire.

Chief Justice Hughes expects to remain in Washington until this afternoon, when he will return to New York. He has decided to retain Reynolds Robertson and W. W. Mischler, who were law clerk and secretary, respectively, to Mr. Taft.

UTILITIES GAIN 116 PER CENT FOR 37 STATES

LAMONT ANNOUNCES NEW SIX-YEAR RECORD

DEPRESSION IS OVER, BARNES DECLARES

Careful Business Planning Will Relieve Hardship, Expert Asserts.

(Associated Press.)

An increase of 116 per cent in contracts awarded in 37 States during January for construction of public works and public utilities as compared with December was reported yesterday by Secretary Lamont.

The January total of $112,065,200 also established a January record for the last six years, the Commerce Secretary said, adding that complete figures reaching the department from State governors confirmed the estimate made several weeks ago that expenditures for building and maintenance of public works and public utilities this year would total or exceed $7,000,000,000.

Each governor who has submitted figures since the department's estimate was said to have reported figures in excess of those issued at that time.

Great Increases Noted.

Using records of the F. W. Dodge Corporation as a basis, Secretary Lamont said the contracts for the 37 States in January, compared with a total of $66,552,000 in January of last year and $51,820,000 in December, 1929. Contracts awarded in November of last year amounted to $72,361,000 and in October, $85,116,000.

Contracts awarded for all classes of construction during January totaled $323,975,200, as contracted with $316,368,100 in the preceding month and $409,967,900 in the corresponding month of last year.

In private construction, commercial building increased about 62 per cent over December to a total of $54,052,300. Increases also were noted in contracts awarded for hospitals and institutions, and in construction for social and recreational purposes, while decreases were shown in contracts for industrial plants and residential buildings.

Depression Danger Over.

Although noting that "business is on the upgrade," Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the national business survey conference, said in a statement last night that careful planning and cooperation can improve buying power still further and can help to relieve individual hardship.

"The danger of a long depression appears fairly over," he said, adding, "this improvement became possible because of the collective common sense, the courage and enterprise of all kinds of Americans, in business and out."

"We do, however," he continued, "need to continue to apply these qualities, especially for the next few weeks."

Advises Home Owners.

Mr. Barnes said that large business interests, the railroads, the public utilities, the steel industry and others, had pushed ahead their construction plans and generally were following the suggestions made at the recent conference called by President Hoover.

Home owners, he said, "can help by doing needed work now, so that men temporarily idle can be carried over until larger programs can be started."

"Any wide unemployment immediately reacts upon business, and the modern business man, knowing this is as anxious as the worker to keep unemployment at a minimum," he added.

Captain Stays With Ship As Crew Reaches Safety

Port Canby, Wash., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Only Capt. Charles Graham tonight remained aboard the passenger liner Admiral Benson, which grounded Saturday night in a dense fog off Peacock Spit, near the mouth of the Columbia River. Remaining members of the crew were taken ashore today in breeches buoy.

The moderating weather apparently explained Capt. Graham's decision to remain on board, orders to abandon ship having been issued previously as a gale and high seas threatened.

LEHLBACH BILL FOES TO BEGIN BATTLE TODAY

FORFEITURE CLAUSE AWAKENS PROTEST

QUOTES STATEMENTS MADE BY WORKERS

Proponents of Plan Appear Before Civil Service Investigators.

In the seventeenth century, Lorenzo Tonti, an Italian banker, worked out a curious retirement scheme. Under it, a group of men would agree to contribute regularly to a common fund, with the understanding that he who lived the longest would in the end get the entire stake.

In the course of three centuries, this death lottery evolved into a feature of many insurance plans, and now, in a new form, it has landed in the Lehlbach civil service retirement bill.

The "tontine," as it is called, will be the storm center of the fight over the Lehlbach bill, it was indicated yesterday at the end of the first day's hearing on the measure at the Capitol.

Opponents Before House.

The fight will get under way today when the opponents of the Lehlbach bill appear before the House civil service committee. The session will be held in the caucus room of the House Office Building, and will start at 10:30 o'clock.

The bill requires the Government employe to contribute 3½ per cent of his salary to the retirement fund, and this, together with what the Government itself adds, pays his retirement annuities after he is out of the service. This plan also is incorporated in the Dale bill, which enemies of the Lehlbach bill are seeking to have passed.

The tontine provision, however, is peculiar to the Lehlbach bill. Under it, $1 a month would be taken from the employe's contribution of 3½ per cent of his salary, and placed in a separate Federal fund.

Provides $1 Monthly.

This $1 a month from the 400,000 or more Federal employes would raise something like $4,500,000, which sum, together with an extra contribution of $5,500,000 from the Federal Government, would make possible the payment of the increased annuities that are provided by the Lehlbach bill.

The bill provides, however, that should the employe resign or die before age, the $1-a-month tontine that has been taken from him will be lost, although the remainder of his contribution to the retirement fund will be restored to him or his estate.

It is this forfeiture feature that is brewing the fight that evidently will break out today; that and a general distaste for the bill by those who want the Dale bill.

Yesterday's hearing started off with a literal bang when Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, chairman of the civil service committee and author of the bill, told those in the caucus room what the opponents of the bill thought of him.

First he quoted statements made by speakers at a mass meeting of navy yard workers Sunday, statements to the effect that he was trying to "muddy the waters" and seeking, by means of his new bill, to block all retirement legislation.

"They intimate," he shouted, "that I have acted in bad faith, or, to put it more plainly and bluntly, that in dealing with retirement legislation, I am a double-crossing liar.

Understands Their Attitude.

"I make this statement in order that those employes' representatives may know that I thoroughly understand their attitude and I want my committee to understand it and also the employes throughout the country.

"From the time of the first retirement bill in 1920, every piece of retirement legislation has been introduced by me, and I have helped materially to insure its passage. Now opposition to this bill is not based on its provision or its merits, but on the grounds that in introducing it I have acted in bad faith."

Having made his statement, Chairman Lehlbach called the first witness—William H. McReynolds, assistant chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, and the man who has been making a Nation-wide survey to compare the wages and working conditions in private business with those in the Government service.

The next and only other witness of the day was Ullery J. Biller, chairman

HOOVER STAYS ALOOF IN TARIFF ROW AFTER TALKS WITH LEADERS

French, British Loaded Plane Records Broken on Florida Course

Jacksonville Beach, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Lee Schoenhair, veteran pilot of Akron, Ohio, today shattered the world's airplane speed record for distances of 100 and 500 kilometers with an added weight of 500 kilograms, equal to 1,102 pounds.

In establishing a new record for 100 kilometers, equivalent to approximately 62 miles, Schoenhair negotiated the course at an average speed of 185.452 miles an hour. This exceeded by 10.79 miles an hour the former record of 174.662 established by Fernand Lasne at Etamps, France, October 7, 1925.

Schoenhair's average speed over the 500 kilometers course, with the same added weight, was 171.228 miles an hour, which surpassed by 12.572 miles an hour the former record of 158,656 set by Capt. H. S. Broad at Stag Island, Reading, England, April 27, 1928.

The purpose of the trials, Schoenhair said, was to prove the feasibility of developing high speed passenger airplanes, capable of transporting considerable weight. His monoplane, of the cabin type, is capable of carrying six persons.

He expects to make attempts Thursday to break the present records over a 1,000-kilometer course, with 500 kilograms added weight, and over

ITALY PUSHES AIMS AS FRENCH DEPART

OTHER DELEGATES WORK

London, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The Italian delegation, in the naval conference lull caused by French internal difficulties, today reaffirmed to Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald its demand for the right to build a fleet equal to that of France or any other continental power.

At the same time, the head of the Italian delegation, Dino Grandi, outlined to the American Secretary of State and the head of the British government Italy's desires for the elimination of all naval competition, provided the other powers are willing.

The information Signor Grandi imparted in the two-hour conference is expected to be issued formally in a memorandum tomorrow or Thursday similar to the statements already issued by the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan.

Signor Grandi's declaration today included facts and figures of tonnage and showed Italy and France to be far apart on the disarmament question.

French fleet demands are based on what are considered absolute needs in view of her national position. Italy views the whole naval question as relative and indicates that no level of tonnage is too low, providing other countries reduce proportionately. At the same time figures on present construction show that Italy is keeping pace with the French in new warships. The figures are said to show that of light auxiliary surface ships on the water or under construction, France has 231,000 tons and Italy 227,000 tons. Of submarines in service at present, France is shown to have 32,000 tons; Italy, 27,000 tons.

It is understood, however, the memorandum will show that while

FIVE DEAD, 100 HURT IN PLANT EXPLOSION

MANY BLINDED FOR LIFE

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 18 (N.W.Y. N.S.).—A deafening blast, followed like a flash by a great sheet of blue flame that filled every corner of a two-story alcohol storage building in the Bayway refinery plant of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey on the outskirts of Elizabeth, brought sudden death to five men shortly before 4 p. m. today and caused injuries to more than 100 others. Some of these were blinded for life.

Of the injured, 64 were taken to Elizabeth hospitals, and about a dozen of these were reported near death tonight. The dead were seared beyond recognition and identification of many of the injured was rendered similarly difficult by the severity of their burns.

So far as could be learned early tonight all the victims were bricklayers, carpenters and other structural workers engaged in making repairs in and near the building in which the explosion occurred, a concrete structure about 100 feet square.

The force of the explosion shook the entire 100-acre refinery plant, which lies on the Elizabeth-Linden boundary line, tore off a section of the roof of the building in which it occurred, and was felt in places more than a mile distant.

Instantly on its heels was the wall of fire, sweeping up through the building beyond any hope of evasion, and over in a second or two. Rescuers went running to the building from all sides, only to see the victims come staggering out, clothes burned away and flesh blackened. The fire which followed was extin-

"Pressman" Borglum Is Prepared for Work on Two Cantos.

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The first two chapters of former President Coolidge's history of the United States in 500 words will be submitted to the "publishers" May 1.

Mr. Coolidge advised Gutzon Borglum, one of the "publishers," or to be more exact, the "pressman" that the cantos dealing with Washington and Jefferson would be completed by the end of April, Mr. Borglum told his office here.

Mr. Coolidge's history is to be engraved on the face of Mount Rushmore in South Dakota, and will become a part of the National Memorial under construction there. Mr. Borglum, the sculptor, is supervising the work. Colossal figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt will be hewn from the rock of the 1,000-foot mountain.

Souvenir Hunters Fight For Coolidge Cigar Butt

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge threw away a half-smoked cigar here today and a crowd of souvenir covetors immediately started a fight for the butt.

Reporters assigned to cover the movements of the distinguished visitor said they saw hands stepped on, some kicks administered and considerable shoving in the melee. A woman, who refused to give her name, won the stub. She put it in her handbag and hurried away.

Mr. Coolidge, who, with Mrs. Coolidge, is visiting southern California as a "tourist," started his second day here this morning by visiting the local offices of the New York Life Insurance Co., of which he is a director. He walked to the offices. He threw his "snipe" away as he was walking back to his hotel from the insurance company offices.

President Has Chieftains at Breakfast for Discussion.

VIEW OF SENATORS GIVEN PREFERENCE

Situation in House Cited as Presenting New Problem.

THREE-DAY RECESS IDEA NOT YET LIKELY

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

House and Senate leaders laid their problems on President Hoover's breakfast table yesterday and as a result he decided to take the advice of the latter and continue to remain out of the tariff fight.

The breakfast conference was called after Majority Leader Tilson had leveled all sorts of criticism at the Senate, asserting that the situation in that body was wrecking the House's legislative program, and expressing the opinion that the matter should be taken to the country, or at least that the country should be told about it.

After the breakfast conference it was made known that the President had no intention of doing this. He was assured by Senate leaders, smarting, incidentally, under Mr. Tilson's unusual expression, that any intervention or utterance by him would simply throw the Senate into turmoil again, while as it is the tariff will be passed without any undue delay.

House Discipline May Crack.

It developed that although it is not true that the Senate situation is threatening any House legislation it is beginning to present a problem to House leaders and that is, with the House waiting around with but little to do, the House discipline may crack.

Another thing, the House leaders would like to adjourn as soon as possible with a view to saving their face.

The situation is such that if the tariff bill were out of the way the House could clean up its affairs and get away in a month. This is predicated upon the fact that there is no serious intention of passing any more prohibition legislation at this session, notwithstanding that the pending proposals are the recommendations of Mr. Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission.

Situation in House.

One serious danger of the House remaining indefinitely in session is that there may be questioning as to why these prohibition proposals are not passed. Some light on the answer is that a subcommittee of the judiciary committee, which has been trying to agree on a bill dealing with the administration's recommendation to broaden the powers of United States commissioners to eliminate jury trials, yesterday tossed the whole business back to the full committee without recommendation. There is decided opposition to this proposal.

The House has slowed down considerably in order that it would not have too much time on its hands before the Senate gets through with the tariff and in this slowing down process which permits of more extensive debate there has been a noticeable tendency of some of the members to get wild. For example, no small part of the prohibition discussion has been possible because of the House leaders' desire to stretch their fairly moderate program out over the time it is necessary for them to wait on the tariff bill.

This slowing down has also made possible such wet demonstrations as that going on now before the judiciary committee.

But the Senate leaders, while appreciating the problems of their colleagues at the other end of the Capitol, did not think Mr. Tilson's remarks helped matters or that his advice to the President was very sound.

Incidentally, the question of the House taking three-day recesses was also discussed at the conference, but it is not to be resorted to for the present at least.

As the actual legislative situation stands, the House has sent but one important bill to the Senate aside from the tariff and the appropriation measures, and that bill is the one that transfers prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice.

Hoover's Views Cited.

Senator Watson, Republican leader, did say after the breakfast conference that Mr. Hoover was most anxious that the tariff be disposed of as soon as possible.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, wanted to know what kind of a bill Mr. Hoover wanted, but Mr. Watson assured him that rates had not been discussed. The Indiana senator incidentally delivered one of his few tariff speeches while he had the floor, asserting that the real object of the tariff "to maintain the American wage scale" had been lost sight of in the long fight.

Senator Borah in a statement said: "I have no doubt that there is a feeling of impatience in the country, but with a bill that has 21,000 items in it and about 20,000 that ought not to be there, it takes time. Time is not nearly so important as to have a good bill when it is passed."

Garner Raps President.

Texas Gold Rush Starts; Lake to Be Pumped Dry

Houston, Tex., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—An atmosphere reminiscent of the California gold rush prevailed today around Humble, Tex., as Clarence Sullivan and a little band of treasure seekers carried on a hunt for a fortune in gold which they believed is in the bottom of Dead Man's Lake. Sullivan was working on old stories that a band of Mexicans, fleeing from Indians, dropped $4,000,000 worth of gold bars into the lake. His plans call for pumping the lake dry.

Oil production, the chief industry of Humble, for the moment took a back seat in public interest. Many persons turned to the hunt for gold, stimulated by reports that Sullivan with his maps and charts might be on the wrong trail and that the treasure might be found in any of the scores of small lakes in the vicinity.

Sheriff Deputizes 25 To Act in Ohio Strike

Bellaire, Ohio, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Twenty-five men were deputized by Sheriff Ford Moore for duty at the Powhattan Mine, where a strike is in progress and where several minor clashes have occurred, the sheriff announced today. A score of miners were reported injured in a clash at the mine this morning.

A strike was called at the Powhattan Mine two weeks ago following a cut in wages. Approximately 500 men are still on strike with half the number on the picket line.

Hungarian Movie Star Divorces Director Mate

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Maria Corda, petite actress, who came to Hollywood a few years ago from Hungary, today was granted a divorce from Alexander Korda, film director.

"He said he hated me," the actress testified. "For weeks he wouldn't speak to me. He didn't like parties and he was jealous whenever I danced with any one else." The couple was married in Budapest in 1920. Custody of an 8-year-old son was awarded to the mother. The actress' maiden name was Corda and she retained the spelling after her marriage.

Books to Be Bared In Big Bribe Case

Court Orders Chicago Firm Records Be Shown to State's Attorney.

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.). — Judge John P. McGoorty, in Criminal Court late today, granted a subpena duces tecum to the State's attorney's office for the records of U. S. A. Co., electrical contractors. The State seeks the records for use in its new grand jury investigation into affairs of the sanitary district of Chicago.

The State charged in its petition that George L. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. Co., had withdrawn $1,000,000 from the firm's funds and used it as part of a huge fund to bribe public officials. The U. S. A. Co. did considerable business for the sanitary district during the years which brought forth much alleged corruption. Among its contracts was that for the lighting of McCormick road. The lights, it was testified at a previous inquiry, cost the district $1,000 a unit.

SENATE INCREASES LIVE CATTLE LEVIES

Hawley-Smoot Figures Are Raised After Sharp Tilt Features Debate.

ZINC RATE MADE HIGHER

(Associated Press.)

After increasing the tariff on zinc and refusing to levy an import tax on silver, now on the free list, the Senate returned yesterday to the heart of the tariff bill—the agricultural schedule—and voted increases in duties on live cattle above those carried in the Hawley-Smoot measure.

Eastern and Southern Democrats clashed heatedly over the proposed cattle levies, but the final roll call revealed the overwhelming sentiment of both parties for higher protection on farm products.

The vote was 72 to 4 for the increases, those in opposition being Senators Copeland and Wagner, New York; Harris, Georgia, and Walsh, Massachusetts, all Democrats.

Connally Sponsors New Rates.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, sponsored the new cattle rates, which, as approved, were 2½ cents a pound on cattle weighing under 700 pounds, and 3 cents a pound for those weighing 700 and over. Present duties are 1½ cents on cattle weighing under 1,050 pounds, and 2 cents on those weighing 1,050 pounds and over.

The House and Senate finance committee bills had made the dividing line 800 pounds and raised existing levies one-half a cent.

Mr. Connally proposed the lowering of the weight dividing line to 700 pounds to prevent what he termed "baby beef" from Canada coming into the United States and competing with beef cattle now afforded higher protection.

Senator Patterson (Republican), Missouri, was successful in having approved an amendment to levy a flat rate of 1½ cents a pound on the zinc content of all ores except pyrites containing not more than 3 per cent zinc.

Pittman Proposal Lost.

At present zinc ores containing less than 10 per cent zinc are admitted free and ores with a zinc content of 10 per cent and over carry duties ranging from ½ to 1½ cents a pound.

A proposal by Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, to levy a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver, now free of duty, was lost, 36 to 32. Pittman served notice he would ask a separate vote on his amendment when the bill reaches the Senate from committee of the whole.

When Senators Walsh and Copeland protested that the cattle rate increases would raise the cost of meat, Senator Connally replied in stinging terms that Easterners always raised the cry when a higher farm tariff was proposed that it would make those in the cities pay a little more for their food, but were not solicitous about the "poor farmer" when an industrial tariff was up.

Three Trolley Tokens For 20 Cents Are Urged

Sale of three street car tokens for 20 cents was urged by William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, in a petition filed with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

The number of cash riders on street cars is increasing, Mr. Clayton said, indicating that the present token fare of six tokens for 40 cents is beyond the means of an increasing number. He said that the existing order of a former commission that three tokens be sold for 20 cents only at car barns was abortive and did not afford the relief needed.

LAND CONFISCATION SOUGHT IN RUM RAID

New York Test Case Planned as Bar Is Seized Under Revenue Laws.

ATTORNEY LEADS SQUAD

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A provision of the internal revenue laws which was originally devised for the suppression of "moonshiners" was invoked today for the second time in two days by Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell in a raid on an alleged speak-easy in Brooklyn.

United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli, of Brooklyn, personally led today's raid on an establishment in Livingston street, a short distance from the Brooklyn Borough Hall and Supreme Court. Just as in yesterday's raid against the Bedford Nest restaurant in Brooklyn, which also was led by Mr. Ameli, the bar and furnishings were carried off by prohibition agents.

Today's raid, as well as yesterday's, was made under the internal revenue laws, which provide that the furnishings and interior of an establishment may be confiscated for failure to pay a liquor tax.

Maj. Campbell said he had directed the raids in order to institute a test case in the Federal courts. He said he would start proceedings to confiscate for the Government not only the fixtures, but also the buildings and land occupied by the places.

He cited the decision of Federal Judge Woodward in Chicago January 8, who ruled in the case of Stanley Tieca that the entire premises could be legally confiscated. Tieca had sued to recover his fixtures.

"The raid," Campbell added, "was my own inspiration."

Authorities were attempting to connect it with a red monoplane which eluded officers at Fremont last night after abandoning several cases of liquor.

Sheriff, Wounded, Kills Paroled Man

Florida Officer Has Fatal Duel With Convict In Stolen Car.

St. Cloud, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Harry Barnes tried to settle an argument with a fellow former convict last night by shooting him and as a result was dead today after a pistol duel with Sheriff L. R. Farmer.

Sheriff Farmer and Harry Terwilliger, Barnes' companion in the original dispute, were in a hospital at Orlando in a serious condition from bullet wounds.

Barnes and Terwilliger, both of whom had been released by the pardon board after serving terms in the State Penitentiary, started an argument near here in a stolen automobile. Barnes shot Terwilliger. The latter asked to be taken to a hospital and Barnes and Dewey Padgett took the wounded man to Kissimmee and obtained an ambulance.

Meanwhile, the sheriff was notified and began a search. He located Barnes at the scene of the shooting. Barnes was seated on the running board of the car, bending over with his arms between his knees as if resting. The sheriff called to the man to surrender. Barnes' arms came up firing a revolver. The sheriff was shot three times before he could return the fire. Barnes, with six bullets in his body, slumped to the ground and died after reaching a hospital.

Family of Girl, 12, Wiped Out by Fire

Child Saves Self in Hotel Blaze Which Claimed Mother and Brothers.

Manitwaki, Quebec, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Alone in the world at the age of 12, Little Glory Galarneau lay in the hospital tonight, a few snowy streets away from the blackened shell of what until today was her home and her family's means of livelihood.

Glory's mother, Mrs. Narcisse Galarneau, her little brothers, Raoul, 4, and Donat, 2, and her uncle, John Marenger, all were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Galarneau Hotel early today. Her father died just before Christmas.

Glory escaped from the fire by jumping, in her night dress, out of a third-story window into a snowbank. She was suffering from bruises and shock.

At least one other person, Nelson Bertrand, of Gracefield, Quebec, a guest, lost his life in the fire.

Fire Chief Labelle believes that the death loss may be even higher as he learned that last night there was a party at the hotel attended by 15 or 20 persons, including some strangers from a lumber camp near Haileybury.

First Passenger Carried In Plane's Outside Loop

St. Louis Pilot Performs Feat Hitherto Unknown in Aviation History.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—An outside loop with a plane carrying a passenger was performed today for the first time in aerobatic history.

Phil Love, well known St. Louis flier, accomplished the feat when he successfully completed three outside loops with Eugene Stevens, of Tallulah, Ga. The pair, classmates once in the Army flying school at Kelly Field, Texas, took off unannounced from Lambert Field and performed the unprecedented feat before a small group of visitors here for the International Aircraft Exposition.

Love explained after the flight that they "merely wanted to test the capabilities of their plane in inverted flight with an overload." Stevens weighs 200 pounds.

The feat was executed in a taper-wing Waco biplane, powered with a Wright J-6 seven-cylinder engine. Stevens said he experienced no ill effects during the flight, but felt "an unusual warmness about the temples and extreme air pressure against my head."

"The first two outside loops," Love admitted later, "were a bit ragged, but the third was perfect."

The first outside loop ever performed in an airplane is credited to Lieut. James Doolittle, recently resigned Army flier.

It was reported at the airport that Charles "Speed" Holman, stunt flier and first man to fly a Ford trimotored monoplane in inverted flight, will attempt a new record for outside loops, unaccompanied, tomorrow.

A new automatic pilot was successfully tested when C. P. Oleson and Otto Greene, inventor, of Elyria, Ohio, flew here from Chicago without touching the controls once during the flight except for taking off and landing.

Milk Drops From Skies As Cow Takes Air Ride

St. Louis, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—"Air-cooled" milk dropped from the skies today at the International Aircraft Exposition.

Sunnymede Ollie, Guernsey cow from Bismarck, Mo., became the first bovine air queen when she was taken for a flight in a trimotored Ford, fed, and milked. Paper containers filled with the milk were dropped to the ground with tiny parachutes. Claude M. Sterling, of Parks Air College, piloted the ship.

The demonstration was undertaken to illustrate the stability of modern aircraft, the feasibility of transporting livestock by air and for scientific study of the cow's beheavior.

WOMAN AND CHINESE DIE IN CHICAGO DRIVE

YOUTH IS FATALLY SHOT

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A young mother was murdered, a Chinese was slain, two women were attacked and a youthful pool-hall frequenter was probably fatally shot during the last 24 hours in Chicago.

Discovery of the body of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 35, on the Northwest Side after an all-night search turned much of the police drive against gunmen and hoodlums into a concentrated search for the slayer.

Mrs. Lavander was shot through the head, and her body was left in a ravine near a lumber yard adjoining the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad tracks. Her purse and other personal belongings were found a quarter of a mile distant in a forest preserve. A $10 bill had been extracted from the purse.

Mrs. Lavander left her home in Forest Glen early last night, leaving her 2-year-old daughter in charge of her mother. She planned to catch a train for the Loop, where she was to join her husband for dinner and the theater.

Both the railroad station and the lumber yard were deserted at that hour, police said, and apparently no one heard the shot that killed the woman. The bullet passed through her right hand, indicating a futile defense against her slayer.

Her husband, who is a purchasing agent, waited an hour at a downtown station and then started police searching for Mrs. Lavander.

Early tonight two suspects were in custody. Both were men found in the vicinity who could give no satisfactory explanation of their presence.

The slaying of the Chinese, Dong Poy, 22, occurred early today and was witnessed by two cab company employes. They saw a man pursue Poy, catch and hold him and shoot him four times in the back. The slayer disappeared in an areaway. No motive could be found.

The two criminal attacks reported to police occurred last night. One woman was seized by a man and dragged into an alley. Another said she was attacked by two youths after an automobile ride with them.

Joseph Spizzio, 21, was shot, probably fatally, in a poolroom on the West Side. The police refused to accept a story that he was shot accidentally during a playful scuffle and began a search for another youth.

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

GENTLEMEN who are making fun of Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson's red hot zeal as a reformer seem to forget that there was a time when he topped all the sons of men as a prophet, prognosticator and seer.

Twelve or fourteen years before the thing happened, at a time when the soft-stepping diplomats and far-seeing statesmen were languidly lolling in the lap of a false security, the hero of the sinking of the Merimac in Santiago Harbor was warning all and sundry that the World War was sure to shake the foundations of the earth, and that just as certainly the United States would do battle with Japan.

During his congressional career he would take the floor of the House any bright and bracing morning and discharge in rattling and reverberant flashes, crashes and roars the opening guns of those two dreaded and catastrophic events. Only once did he fail to get a hearing for what he had to say about the impending Japanese imbroglio. That was at a Democratic national convention in Denver.

* * * *

THE great hall was packed and jammed. For two days orators, statesmen and politicians had let loose within its long-suffering walls floods of oratory, prediction and denunciation. The delegates were bored and weary. It was all the same to them if no man ever again opened his mouth above a whisper.

Far down on the floor, under the banner of Alabama, sat a pale-faced, earnest looking man, known to all as an animated and insistent prophecy of hostilities between Japanese and Americans. At last he caught the chairman's eye and was recognized.

For a long moment Capt. Hobson, with the dramatic effectiveness of the trained orator, reviewed the crowd in silence. Some of the delegates began to hope that he had forgotten what he wanted to say. Then, stretching upward a long arm, he drew himself to his full and commanding height, threw back his head and shouted in stentorian, not to say strident, tones:

"War with Japan!"

* * * *

THAT was the beginning, the ending, the blow-off and the grand finale. He got no further. Delegates and spectators were all aquiver with ideas, hopes and fears about candidates, and here was this slender, ardent prophet trying to tell them something about the Japanese scaling the Rocky Mountains, campaigning through Kansas and besieging New York City from the rear!

A pandemonium of shouts, yells and shrieks filled the air. The vast hall was a tumult of surging men and rising voices. So great was the uproar that not even the intense and keyed-up Hobson could blow his whistle, snap loose the chains and turn out the dogs of war for a preliminary canter down the aisles.

"War with Japan!"

It was the shortest speech made at the convention. That was all there was to it—three words and a riot.

PAYMENT OF $50,000 FOR LOBBYING BARED

Former Legislator Says Sum He Got for Tariff Work May Reach $75,000.

CONTINGENT BASIS IS HIT

(Associated Press.)

Turning aside temporarily from its investigation of efforts to influence Muscle Shoals legislation, the Senate lobby committee yesterday received testimony from Marion De Vries, a former representative from California, that he had received about $50,000 for his activities in connection with the pending tariff bill.

As a customs attorney in Washington, Mr. De Vries said he had represented a number of companies and organizations interested in tariff rates and that his compensation might total as much as $75,000 since the remuneration from some of his clients will be determined by the success of his efforts.

Besides having served in Congress, he also is a former judge of the Court of Customs Appeals.

Testimony that he had been retained on a "contingent" basis by some of the companies drew from Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, the observation that this would be grounds for disbarment in some States.

Mr. De Vries maintained that, while it was held illegal by certain States, the Supreme Court of the United States had upheld its legality and that he would not object if the practice were abolished.

The committee expects to return to the Muscle Shoals investigation this week with examination of W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid Co., and Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committe.

The Cyanamid Co. has in legislation now before Congress a bid to lease the power and nitrate plant. The offer has been supported by the Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which Huston is a former president.

FIGHT ON HUSBANDS' DIVORCE CASES LOST

COURT EXPLAINS STAND

Irene M. Humphries and Rose M. Frazier yesterday lost their fights to have their respective husbands restrained from prosecuting divorce actions in Virginia. The decision was rendered by Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court. The justice held that there were no unusual circumstances in the wives' applications for injunctions.

Justice Wheat in his memorandum opinions in the two cases wrote: "In the view which I take of this question it is not necessary to determine the extent of the power of a court of equity to enjoin a party from proceeding in the courts of another jurisdiction or circumstances under which that power may properly be exercised.

"Neither is it necessary to decide whether section 265 of the Judicial Code applies to this court sitting in matrimonial actions. Whether it does or does not, that section expresses the salutary rule for the prevention of unseemly conflict between courts. In my opinion an injunction restraining a defendant from prosecuting a divorce action in another jurisdiction should be granted, if at all, only in cases presenting unusual circumstances. These do not seem to me to be such cases."

Mrs. Humphries, who resides on E street southeast, near Second street, sought to have her husband, Walter Humphries, of Cherrydale, Va., enjoined, while Mrs. Frazier, who resides on Carroll street southeast, near First street, sought similar action against her husband, Harry Frazier, said to be an employe of the Treasury Department.

AMERICAN AVIATOR SETS SPEED RECORD

100, 500 and 1,000 kilometer courses carrying 1,000 kilograms, equivalent to 2,204 pounds.

Shortly after Schoenhair took off from the Municipal Airport at Jacksonville a door on the plane blew open. High tide at the beach prevented him landing here and he was forced to fly the entire route with the door open. He estimated that the air resistance reduced his speed approximately 10 miles an hour.

Throughout the trials, Schoenhair skimmed along the edge of the ocean only few feet above the water, taking advantage of sand dune protection from strong cross-winds.

Schoenhair's trials are being supervised by the National Aeronautic Association and the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, the international governing body.

SANITY QUIZ OPENS FOR WOMAN KILLER

MAY GO TO JURY TODAY

Florence, Ariz., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A jury of twelve men was selected in two hours today in the sanity hearing of Mrs. Eva Dugan, 52-year-old housekeeper, sentenced to hang Friday for the murder in 1927 of A. J. Mathis, aged Tucson (Ariz.) recluse. After the jury was completed, the hearing of testimony started.

Lorenzo Wright, warden of the State prison here, was summoned as the first witness.

The State made a surprise move as the defense opened its case by announcing it would call no witnesses, allowing the jury to determine Mrs. Dugan's sanity solely on the representations of defense testimony.

However, after preliminary questioning by the defense, the State began a rapid cross-examination of Mr. Wright and drew from him and a subsequent witness, Dr. L. A. Love, physician at the State prison, that Mrs. Dugan acted much as any other condemned prisoner they had seen.

Defense attorneys said they anticipated all testimony in the case would be completed by tomorrow morning, and that the jury probably would receive the case by tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Dugan, the first woman in Arizona to receive the death sentence, sat quietly in the courtroom. Much of the time she stared through a window. When the question of her sanity was mentioned she smiled broadly.

France is now building 50,000 tons of submarines, Italy at the present time has laid down only 9,000 tons.

Parley Work Goes On.

The move made by Signor Grandi today saved disarmament negotiation from the doldrums during the French cabinet shake-up and provided the delegates with plenty of food for study during the absence of the chief French delegates.

Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, officially informed Mr. MacDonald this morning of the French political situation, while tonight Ambassador de Fleuriau notified the other delegations that the work of the French conference group is completely suspended.

This was somewhat a surprise, because it was expected that the French delegates would continue to participate in the technical work. But actually they probably will sit as observers when the experts meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow to continue consideration of special vessels and how they shall be placed in fleet tonnage tables.

French Envoys Anxious.

The French delegation became apprehensive when it learned the nature of the conference between Signor Grandi, Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald. M. Leygues, the only full delegate here, planned to return to Paris this morning and then decided to remain on as an observer. He changed his plans again this afternoon and left for Paris.

Signor Grandi's move was the first prominent part he has played in the London negotiations for a week.

A British spokesman said today that the delegates and experts remaining in London would have plenty of technical work to occupy them for the week despite the absence of the French. He said that whatever changes occurred in the French government, there was little probability of the French conference policy being altered in London.

General sentiment is noted in London favoring the return ot Andre Tardieu as premier of France, with Aristide Briand as foreign minister The possibility of former President Poincare being asked to form a cabinet and coming to London instead of Tardieu did not bring favorable comment from British circles.

As to the question of Japanese-American settlements regarding naval matters, that will await the outcome of the Japanese national elections.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia held a quarterly dinner last night at the Lafayette Hotel. W. E. Andrews, former representative of Nebraska, spoke of what the Pilgrims accomplished in America.

George O'Connor, comic songster, sang about the things the Mayflower started, but never finished. He was accompanied on the piano by Matt Horn.

Among those present were Ernest Radford, Mrs. Sylvanus Johnson, Col. and Mrs. G. A. Lynch, Mrs. Byron U. Graham, Mrs. Mary Dennett, Mr. and Mrs. Hersey Monroe, Mr. and Mrs Warren G. Emley and Maj. and Mrs. Altheus Johnson. Mrs. Annie Lucile Emley and Mrs. Winifred Freiot had charge of the banquet. Past Gov. Carter B. Keene arranged for the entertainers and Gov. John Altheus Johnson presided.

Coroner Who Sent 20 Men To Gallows Is Dead at 80

Life Spent in Unraveling Crime Mysteries Ends; Potato, Scraps of Paper, Wisp of Hair Were Enough Clews to Solve Murders.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A life spent in unraveling the mysteries of crime came to an end today with the death of Coroner Eli Mix, who held that office probably longer than any similar official in the country. He was 80 years old.

Appointed in 1885, Mix, who said "my life has been just one detective yarn after another," followed the trail of criminals by such slim clews as a red potato, scraps of burned paper, a torn piece of cloth and even a wisp of hair, until two years ago, when he was confined in a hospital.

In the red potato case, Mix found a potato in the pockets of a supposed suicide, discovered a field in which they were grown, and arrested the owner, who later confessed.

The murder of a 4-year-old girl, smothered to death in a rooming house, was one of the most baffling. She had been brought there by a woman who registered under a fictitious name. Search uncovered a cake pan in which were scraps of burned paper. Placing them under a glass, he pieced them together and made out the name of a South Norwalk installment house and an account number. Through this the mother, who had run away with an iceman, was found. She died while awaiting trial.

A black cloth used as a face mask was the single clew left by the murderer of two aged sisters in their lonely farmhouse. They had been robbed and beaten to death. Mix learned that on the same night an attempt had been made to assault a young woman in the neighborhood. She gave a good description of the man, which resulted in finding a man in Derby who answered that description. In the house were found a blackjack and a brace of guns, and in a closet a black vest from which had been torn the piece of cloth left in the farmhouse. He went to prison for life.

Mix went to great pains to prove Julia Monahan guilty of poisoning three husbands and a niece to obtain life insurance. She was convicted and sentenced to life. The coroner had warned the third bridegroom-to-be of his probable fate after the woman had been thrice acquitted

After a long inquiry the coroner proved conclusively that Charles Edwards, member of a prominent New Haven family, had taken his own life and was not the victim of a killer. This case attracted wide attention. The famous Wallingford "shoe box" mystery was one of the few major crimes which Mix never solved. A man's torso was found in a box, the arms and legs in a well nearby. Investigation revealed that the box had been shipped from Chicago.

He is credited with having sent a score of men to the gallows, but he witnessed only one execution. One, he said, was enough.

Mix was graduated from Yale Law School in 1876. He is survived by two sons and a daughter.

LEADERS CONSULTED ON FRENCH CABINET

Three Alternatives Are Faced in Selection of New Government.

LITTLE PROGRESS SEEN

Paris, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Solution of the cabinet crisis caused by overthrow of the Tardieu government had made no forward step at the close of the second day, devoted to President Doumergue's consultations with the most prominent statesment of the republic.

Indications were that France would be without a government several days or even a week. The London Naval Conference was at a standstill due to the fact that France will not be officially represented again until her home affairs are straightened out.

President Doumergue conferred today with the two men about whom cabinet speculation is hottest—former President Poincare and former Premier Briand.

Three alternatives faced the President tonight:

1. A left government headed by Camille Chaumtemps, with Briand as minister of foreign affairs.

2. A Briand hybrid government, with the majority recruited from the moderates of the Left, Right and Center.

Former Premier Tardieu was reported improved tonight, although coughing severely from the irritations of grip.

The effect of the cabinet crisis on the London conference has given an international aspect to France's domestic political difficulties.

In an outspoken editorial, Le Temps this afternoon warned its readers that "formidable pressure" was now being exercised on France in London to reduce her naval tonnage claim.

It affirms that part of the English press is conducting a campaign calculated to give a false impression of the French position, which it says is "a not overscrupulous maneuver of intimidation" intended to permit "some nations" to keep their naval supremacy.

PRESIDENT SILENT ON LONDON PARLEY

DEMANDS HELD FIRM

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover does not regard this as an opportune time for any comment from him respecting the London naval conference. Anticipated explanations from the White House, designed to check the wave of pessimism concerning the conference, were not forthcoming yesterday and the State Department maintained silence in the face of gloomy forebodings and reports from abroad.

The fall of the Tardieu government temporarily dislocated the conference machinery and caused indefinite postponement of conferences which Secretary Stimson and Ambassador Dwight Morrow intended to have this week with the leaders of the French delegation. These conferences were looked forward to, it is explained here, for several reasons. It has been Mr. Stimson's hope all along that much benefit would be derived from a heart to heart talk with Tardieu and Briand, after the French proposals had been submitted. The idea has been to make a distinctly American appeal to the leaders of the French delegation and trust to eloquence and tact in endeavoring to change the French viewpoint. In some quarters it has been hoped that the projected informal conferences between the Americans and the French might prove the turning point in the conference.

In anticipation of these conferences, officials here have taken pains to refrain from any criticism of the French figures in the Tardieu program. The tendency has been to place America in a neutral attitude with respect to the French demands and to rely upon a voluntary change of attitude on the part of France.

The absence of the French delegates from London has disrupted the schedule of Franco-American conferences and has left French public opinion under the impression that both Mr. Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald are hostile and unsympathetic to the French program. During the period of delay, this impression will necessarily persist. The longer it persists, the more determined the French press becomes to demand that there be no yielding by France excepting in the event of a political treaty guaranteeing French security and committing the United States.

No prospect of a weakening of the French demands is seen in the French cabinet crisis over a purely domestic issue. The influence of Poincare, whether he be included in the next cabinet or not, is regarded as an indication that French demands will if anything be made more inflexible.

The delay at London is causing uneasiness here and it is realized that it may be more than a day or two before the French delegation will be back in London. At the Washington conference of 1921-22 and at the Geneva three-power conference of 1927, the naval programs of all of the interested powers were announced and laid face upward on the table at the very first session. At London the conference is entereing its fifth week with only a part of this preliminary step accomplished. Funds appropriated by Congress for the delegation will be insufficient by a wide margin to pay the expenses of the American delegation and their technical advisers and large staffs if the conference continues at its present rate and there is a fear that demand for more funds from Congress may open up discussion of what has so far been achieved.

THREE DIE IN BLAST AT ALCOHOL PLANT

guished within a few minutes, and all energies were bent toward affording relief to the sufferers.

Resembled Battlefield.

The ground in the vicinity of the explosion a few minutes later resembled a battlefield, with the staff of the refinery's hospital administering first aid, and ambulances, motor trucks and everything else on wheels rushing the injured off to Elizabeth hospitals.

While inquiries went forward tonight by Linden police and Standard Oil authorities, the exact cause of the disaster remained undetermined.

Some of the workmen who escaped with minor injuries, however, reported that a naphtha gas line under pressure, which runs from the agitators at the refinery to the alcohol storage building, burst and that the fumes were ignited by the forges used by some of the workmen.

The alcohol is manufactured by the company for use in its various refining processes, for sale for automobile radiators and for use in the manufacture of Nujol, one of the Standard Oil products.

Identification Difficult.

It was believed a complete check-up of all workmen known to have been at the building at the time of the explosion would have to be made before the names of the dead could be determined.

News of the disaster spread rapidly, and scores of relatives of the victims were soon besieging the hospitals, begging for information. The severe injuries to many of the patients, making recognition difficult, together with the inability of many of them to talk and tell their names, made identification a slow process.

The one patient at the Alexian Hospital was reported in a critical condition and ten of those at the Elizabeth General were not expected to live.

LEHLBACH BILL DATA REQUESTED OF POST

QUERIES ARE ANSWERED

What is your retirement annuity going to be under the new Lehlbach retirement bill?

Scores of Federal and District employes daily are taking advantage of the offer of The Post, in conjunction with the National Federation of Federal Employes, to gain an answer to that question. Every mail is bringing additional queries and the response to the query already has proved immeasurably beyond expectations.

Out of the mass of communications received, here is a representative letter from an employe of a Federal agency:

"I will have completed 20 years' service in April, 1930. At that time I will be 44 years old. My salary since the enactment of the first retirement bill has been as follows: November, 1919, $2,100 plus $240; July, 1923, $2,880; November, 1926, $3,000; May, 1929, to retirement, $3,400. Thanking you for this particular information and congratulating you upon voluntary service so helpful to so many employes with no definite source of information."

The answer sent to the employe yesterday follows:

"In reply to your communication, you are advised that your eligibility for retirement would occur in 1956, inasmuch as you are now 44 years old, and in the 70-year group. Under the provisions of the Lehlbach bill would receive $1,200 annuity. Under the prvoisions of the Lehlbach bill you would receive approximately $2,100 annuity."

Action on Nomination Of Keech Is Postponed

Action of the Senate District committee on the nomination of Richard B. Keech as people's counsel for the District to succeed Ralph B. Fleharty was postponed yesterday to give members of the committee further opportunity to study the qualifications of the nominee.

Decision is expected at a meeting to be held Friday.

HOWARD SERVICES TODAY.

Burial of Late Executive to Be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Funeral services of Henry J. M. Howard, 76 years old, who died Monday at his home, 87 V street northwest, will be conducted from the residence at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, pastor of the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Church, with interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Howard was president of the H. J. M. Howard Manufacturers Co., makers of fire protection apparatus here. He was a native of East Lyme, Conn., and had been a resident of Washington for 46 years. He is survived by a son, Robert H. Howard, and two sisters, Miss Mary Alice Howard, of this city, and Mrs. Emma C. Jones, of Niantic, Conn.

RITES FOR MRS. LOHR.

Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow With Arlington Burial.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lohr, 81 years old, who died Sunday in the Walter Reed Hospital, will be buried tomorrow. A requiem mass will be said in St. Martin's Church at 9:30 o'clock with burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Lohr came to this city 22 years ago from California, where she was born. She became ill two weeks ago and was taken to the hospital. Her late husband, Aaron Lohr, was a Civil War veteran.

OPPONENTS OF LEHLBACH BILL OPEN FIGHT IN HOUSE TODAY

Benefits Low-Paid Employe.

Summed up, their arguments in favor of the bill were these:

That, by guaranteeing the employe $30 a year for each year of service, it will materially benefit the low-paid employe, who will get $450 a year at the lowest.

That, by basing the annuity on what the employe actually puts into the retirement fund, it will permit an employe to draw an annuity above $1,200, the maximum set in the Dale bill.

The two witnesses admitted, however, that the only employes who will get higher annuities immediately or in the very near future are the extremely low-paid employes or the well-paid employes.

Witnesses on Defensive.

Those in between—the $2,000 and $3,000 clerks—it was admitted, will have to wait for ten years or more before they will begin to realize the higher annuities promised by the bill. A $6,000 employe, it was said, would begin to benefit in 1935.

In no case, however—and this had to be stressed over and over again—will an employe receive less than he would under the Dale bill.

If, at times yesterday, the testimony seemed to be against instead of in favor of the bill, it was because the members of the committee generally had the witnesses on the defensive. The members, with the exception of Lehlbach, were plainly baffled by some of the provisions in the bill, and, consequently, they had the witnesses in a defensive posture throughout the hearing.

Says Tontine Barred.

Representative McCormack (Democrat), of Massachusetts, was particularly curious about the tontine feature of the bill. He declared that in many States the tontine was barred from insurance plans.

"New York, for instance," he said, "has a law making this system illegal. Would it be right for the Federal Government to legalize what the State of New York considers illegal?"

Mr. McReynolds pointed out that the tontine plan already has been incorporated in the retirement system of the foreign service of the State Department.

Three more witnesses in favor of the bill will be heard this morning—Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes; F. G. Ashbrook, a member of the federation's committee of 50, and O. L. Robbins, of the Department of Agriculture.

Chairman Lehlbach then probably will call Robert H. Alcorn, chairman of the joint conference on retirement, one of the leaders of the opposition. Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the League of the American Civil Service, also probably will be heard today.

Post Bureau to Supply Data on Lehlbach Bill

How will the new Lehlbach retirement bill affect me? What will my retirement annuity be?

Sixty thousand Federal and District employes here and six times that number in the States are asking these questions now.

The Post, in conjunction with the National Federation of Federal Employes, has established an information service which will supply the answers. Queries, however, must be made by mail.

Letters should be addressed to "Retirement Editor, Washington Post, Washington, D. C." and should contain a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

The employe should give full particulars as to his position, age, length of service and salary.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU'S STUDY ON PAY CAUSES DISSENSION

Army officers received $1,990 a year, naval officers $2,080, Coast Guard $2,210, civilian engineers $2,200, college instructors $2,150 and business men $2,200.

After ten years of service the schedules were: Army, $3,700; Navy, $4,500; Coast Guard, $3,840; Engineers, $4,700; college instructors, $3,940, and business men, $6,150.

At the 20-year period the pay schedules were: Army, $5,620; Navy, $6,950; Coast Guard, $5,970; Engineers, $6,900; college instructors, $5,250, and business men $8,900.

Under the plan of the interdepartmental pay board the cost of the pay raises to the services commissioned personnel would amount to $85,684,706 a year, with the Army officers receiving $45,509,921, the Navy $35,907,296 and the Coast Guard $3,455,450.

As an illustration of the proposed pay raise for the Army officers a young officer just commissioned would get $3,150 in place of $1,990, an officer in the service ten years, $5,600, instead of $3,700, and an officer who had served 20 years, $7,820, instead of $5,620, and those officers serving more than 30 years, $10,750, instead of $6,850.

In the pay schedules submitted the naval officers would receive slightly more and the Coast Guard officers, slightly less than the Army officers. In the tables it was pointed out that the average engineer reached the $8,000 salary class when he had served for 25 years, that the college instructors went higher than $5,850, and that the business man was receiving $8,900 after 20 years in business.

Strong objection was made by both the Army and the Navy, in reports submitted by the assistant chief of staff of the Army, and through the Secretary of the Navy's office, to the inclusion of the teaching profession in the Bureau of Efficiency's contrasting calculations.

Maj. F. C. Harrington, of the Army General Staff, reported that the Army officers were comparable to engineers. Both the Army and the naval officials indicated in their reports that the proposed pay raise of 41.3 per cent was fair. The Army's report mentioned the rise in the cost of living which the Bureau of Efficiency had failed to take into consideration. The bureau indicated that the pay increases were too high.

Smith Receiver Petition Hearing Again Delayed

New York, Feb. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Hearing of the petition for an equity receivership brought against the F. H. Smith Co., directors of which are under indictment in Washington on charges of mail fraud, was again postponed today until February 25 by Judge Bondy in United States District Court.

The petition was filed January 9 by Jerry W. and Anna B. Overbaugh, of Catskill. Attorneys for the company have signified they will move for dismissal of the petition.

PLANS TO REPLACE CHAIN BRIDGE MADE

$10,000 BILL IS PENDING

Plans for a new bridge to replace the Chain Bridge have been tentatively drawn and legislative authority for the construction of a new substitute span will be asked of Congress in the near future, the District Commissioners said yesterday in a letter to Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee.

The replacement of the existing Chain Bridge, the Commissioners said, was listed as one of the major and most important projects in the bridge program of the District.

Their letter was in the nature of a report on the pending bill authorizing $10,000 expenditure for the drafting of preliminary plans by the Secretary of War for a new bridge. Such plans already have been drawn by the District bridge department, the Commissioners said, and the Secretary of War, the Fine Arts Commission and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission would be consulted.

If the new bridge is to be constructed out of the general revenues of the District, the Commissioners said, the administration of its construction and maintenance should be left with the District government and not placed with the War Department.

The present bridge, they said, is not suited to present day traffic needs, but is such an important link that it should be replaced.

Film Stars Attend Funeral of Moore

Envoy's Body Is Placed on Train for Pittsburgh After Rites.

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Attended by luminaries of the screen, friends and relatives, private funeral services were held here late today for Alexander P. Moore, who died yesterday after a brief illness.

Several hours later, the remains were placed aboard a transcontinental train, destined for Pittsburgh, where the former newspaper publisher will be buried. Shortly before his death, Mr. Moore had been appointed Ambassador to Poland by President Hoover, but he never had an opportunity to serve. Formerly, he had been Ambassador to Spain and Peru. His wife, Lillian Russell, the actress, died in 1921.

Among those at the bier, while the Rev. Hugh Walker, of the First Presbyterian Church, spoke the last rites, were two cousins, Miriam Culbertson and Eleanor Schuber; Charles Chaplin and Marion Davies, motion picture stars; William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher; J. P. Emge, a former associate publisher with Ambassador Moore, and Mrs. Emge.

Jury to Condemn Site Of Center Market Sworn

A jury of five men to condemn three squares of land, now occupied by the Center Market, one of Washington's landmarks, for the proposed Government Archives Building was sworn in yesterday before Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court. The property is bounded by Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Ninth, Tenth and B streets.

Member of the jury are John C. Gheen, Paul W. Fishbaugh, Thomas Edmonston, William M. Cliff and Harry J. Scharnikow. They will be taken on an inspection tour of the property on March 4. Assistant to the Attorney General Henry H. Glassie and Assistant United States Attorney Arthur G. Lambert represent the Government. A number of other attorneys have entered appearance for the property owners.

Last Bomb Victim Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Nora Hall Discharged After Recovery From Maryland Outrage.

A final chapter in the famous Seat Pleasant bombing outrage on New Year's Day, which cost the lives of three persons and injured three other members of the same family, was written yesterday when the last member of the surviving trio, Mrs. Nora Hall, left Providence Hospital upon recovery from her injuries.

Explosion of the bomb, camouflaged as a Christmas present, instantly killed Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, 18 years old, and fatally injured a sister, Dorothy Hall, 4 years old, and Samuel Hall, 1 year old. The blast also injured two other brothers, Leslie Hall, 16 years old, and Thomas Hall, 8 years old, both of whom recovered from their hurts several weeks ago.

Leroy Brady, 28-year-old Washington electrician and brother of Mrs. Brady's husband, recently was indicted by a Prince Georges County grand jury on charges of murder of the woman.

"In home construction it is common sense economy to use only materials that will last". . .

WALTER E. FREW

BUILDING a home requires the same careful judgment and foresight that you use in your business investments. If you sacrifice permanent worth to initial saving, you are sure to lose. Bankers know this. That is why such men as Walter E. Frew advise you to insist on permanent, rust-proof construction.

Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts, Brass or Copper pipe and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. They give lifelong service without upkeep cost in home or skyscraper.

The slightly higher first cost of genuine rust-proof equipment is doubly justified. First, by its economy in the long run. Second, by the increased value it gives your property.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

If you are NOT yourself

Are you being denied the happiness that is due you in life?

IT is easy to abuse our golden life-given body, but Nature has a way of signaling danger. If heeded, graver troubles may be avoided. That tired, exhausted feeling, lack of appetite, aches and pains, flabby flesh, skin troubles—all speak of a body weakness—a lack of the normal count of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

So, if you are not yourself, look to the red-blood-cells to give you sturdy health.

Every normal person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to the cubic millimeter—those vitalizing, tiny red-cells which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people

It helps nature increase the red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

S.S.S. will not work wonders over night—no restorative medicine can do that—but, be assured, that when taken according to directions full and satisfactory benefit will usually ensue.

S.S.S. is time-tested and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs, gathered at the proper season of the year. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take. You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It is on sale at all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larges size. It is more economical.

WISE BUYERS ARE GETTING THE CREAM, ARE YOU?

They order Reading furnace size coal and Fyrewell—a specially prepared small size Reading hard coal.

They use both sizes in firing their furnaces. Fyrewell is so low-priced that the average cost of Fyrewell and furnace bought together is just about the same as the original cost of smoky or synthetic fuels.

But from Reading furnace and Fyrewell, wise buyers get the world's finest furnace fires—clean, long-burning, needing little attention, giving uniform heat hour after hour, and all at a delivered heat cost that is surprisingly low.

We call these sizes the "cream" coals because your furnace gets more nourishment out of them at lower cost. If you haven't tried this combination, call your coal merchant today. He has these Reading sizes, or can quickly get them for you.

WOMAN DESCRIBES BREAK IN BALM SUIT

Plaintiff Says That Gillespie Stole Her Lucrative Legal Practice.

ASKS $574,165 DAMAGES

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—On the witness stand in Supreme Court today Frances Marion Brandon, lawyer, advertising expert and playwright, unfolded a narrative that might have furnished material for one of the motion picture scenarios she said she used to write.

With colorful detail, she described events which, she said, led up to her break with George P. Gillespie, elderly attorney whom she is suing for $574,165 for breach of promise and fraud.

She charges that Mr. Gillespie, who is president of the New York City board of water supply and personal counsel to Cardinal Hayes, not only cast her off after proposing marriage to her while his invalid wife was still living, but stole her exceedingly lucrative legal practice which included among its clients Elihu Root.

After declaring earlier in the day that she and Mrs. Gillespie met and became friends, although Mrs. Gillespie knew of her intimate friendship with Mr. Gillespie, Mrs. Brandon this afternoon told what she said was the story of her last encounter with Gillespie, following his wife's death.

He had just returned from Europe, she said, and she met him at his office at 8:30 in the evening of July 15, 1924.

"When I addressed him by his pet name, 'Robin,'" she said, "Mr. Gillespie drew himself up and said:

"'Will you be good enough to call me Mr. Gillespie?'"

She asked him when they were going to be married, she said, to which he replied:

"What? Me marry you? You must be crazy."

The interview ended, she said, when he called her a "Sheba" and ordered her put out of the office.

Gillespie's attorney in outlining his case to the jury as the trial opened yesterday, denied all of Mrs. Brandon's charges and said his client had on one occasion had to call up the newspapers and deny an announcement of their engagement, inserted by her aunt.

Washington was chosen as the 1931 convention city.

Actress' Plea of Poverty Fails to Halt $100,000 Suit

With Marjorie Rambeau in California, Her Case Is Tried in New York.

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Despite assertions of her counsel that Marjorie Rambeau, actress, was stranded in Los Angeles, Calif., without fare to bring her to New York, Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck today ordered to trial a $100,000 suit brought against Miss Rambeau by Mabel Manton, actress. Miss Manton charges alienation of the affections of William K. Manton, her husband.

After Miss Manton and her witnesses testified, Justice Schmuck ordered the jury to return a sealed verdict, to be opened tomorrow.

Miss Rambeau's attorneys sought adjournment of the case on the grounds of her lack of funds to come here and the illness of her mother, whom she is attending in Los Angeles.

Miss Manton said her husband maintained a room for himself at the Hotel Remington in 1924, although both were out of work at the time. She said she entered Miss Rambeau's suite in another hotel in June, 1925, and found her husband with the actress.

Post Campaign Director Tells of Last Chance Today to Secure 100,000 Extra Votes; Out-of-Town Entrants Can Mail Their Returns.

The door of the city room opened to admit Old Man Opportunity and two feminine visitors promptly fainted, for the old gentleman was clad only in a pair of pale pink shorts with sleeveless undershirt to match. He was closely followed by C. D. Chance in a similar costume.

"What's the idea of disturbing the peaceful serenity of the editorial department in this unseemly manner?" demanded the city editor.

"We're ready for the race," explained Mr. Chance. "Wednesday is the last day of the 100,000 Extra Vote offer in our $20,000 Opportunity Campaign and we've got to set the pace for contestants who wish to turn in $20 worth of new subscriptions before 9 p. m."

"And the best part of it is," said old Joe, "that every one can be first. It isn't a race against other persons but against Old Father Time himself. He will breast the tape at exactly 9 p. m., and all who arrive at the campaign office before him, with their final subscriptions totaling $20 in value, will be winners of 100,000 extra votes for each $20 club."

"Have out-of-town contestants got to run 'way up here also?" inquired a bystander.

"No," answered Joe Opportunity. "They have only to get their subscriptions in the mail in time to have them postmarked not later than 9 p. m. February 19, to be qualified as winners."

VOTE IS WITHHELD IN FORUM DEBATE

No Decision Is Reached on Election of District Board of Education.

LESH AND YADEN SPEAK

Inability to reach a decision on whether the District Board of Education should be elected by residents of the District or appointed, as it is now, by judges of the District Supreme Court, was evidenced last night by the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights following a debate on the subject by Paul E. Lesh, former president of the Washington Bar Association, who took the negative side of the question, and James G. Yaden, chairman of the committee on education of the Federation Citizens Associations, who took the affirmative.

At the conclusion of the debate, and after several shorter speeches were made by representatives of various citizens associations, the forum voted to table the matter for a month when a final vote is expected to be taken. Decision to hold a debate was made on recommendation of the education committee of the forum. Mr. Yaden and Mr. Lesh were selected to voice the various phases of the problem.

Mr. Yaden voiced the opinion that if the members of the Board of Education were chosen by the people of the District that they would perform their duties more efficiently. He pointed out that at present the members of the board are accountable to no one. Mr. Lesh pointed out that one of the chief drawbacks to electing members of the board would be the colored vote, which would probably bring up embarrassing complications. He contended that judges of the District Supreme Court are well equipped to choose members of the Board of Education.

240 Days in Jail Given Man for $43 Larceny

John McLendon, 29-year-old Negro, drew a 240-day jail sentence from Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday, when he was tried on a charge of larceny in connection with the theft of $43 from the office safe at Emergency Hospital.

Headquarters' detectives testified that they obtained a confession from the prisoner and that a search of his locker had resulted in the discovery of $41. McLendon, according to hospital attaches, was employed as a cleaner and had access to the office where the safe was located.

NO POLITICAL PACT.

There is no indication that President Hoover is disposed to consider the commitment of the United States to a political pact as a means of facilitating a naval agreement. The cautious suggestions in that direction, put forth for over a year by foreign propagandists, have grown into a vociferous chorus in the English press. The argument is made that the great powers should agree to confer in case of a threatened breach of the peace anywhere in the world. It is urged that the United States, sponsor of the Kellogg pact, should be glad to agree to join the powers in seeking means to prevent a threatened outbreak. In order to allay American aversion to entangling alliances the point is made that the United States would not be bound to do anything and that it could withdraw from the conference if it found itself in disagreement with other powers.

This seemingly innocuous plan has found favor among some Americans. They are impressed by the statement that the United States is already bound by a similar agreement, the four-power Pacific pact. They overlook the fact that the United States possesses territory in the region affected, and is very properly a party to a treaty involving its interests.

The suggestion that the United States should bind itself to take part in a conference seeking to prevent war in the Mediterranean or in Europe entirely ignores the fact that the United States would thereby become virtually an ally of the parties to the pact. One of these parties may itself be an aggressor or an inciter of war. The United States at present is free to maintain impartial friendship with all nations. It would not hold that enviable position if it were bound to take sides with the great powers in preventing war. If war should be threatened in Syria, for example, and Turkey should become an antagonist of France, who knows that the United States would sympathize with France? A threatened war in Egypt, resulting from an independence movement, would find many Americans sympathizing with Egypt as against Great Britain. Yet, under the proposed compact, the United States would be sitting with Great Britain, engaged in trying to find a method of stifling Egypt's move for independence.

There are many stirrings in the world, among peoples that demand independence. It is not the duty of the United States to join the great imperial powers in putting down these movements, any more than it is incumbent upon the United States to encourage revolution anywhere. This Nation should be free to exercise its own independent judgment in all cases, according to circumstances. If it is to maintain its policy of neutrality during overseas wars it must avoid commitments that would bring into question its right to remain neutral.

At present the four great naval powers, outside of the United States, are Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy. Less than fifteen years ago there were others. Who knows what will be the rule fifteen years hence? The United States can gain nothing by becoming the ally and supporter of powers that happen to be foremost at this time. Fifteen years ago it might have been the ally of Germany, Austro-Hungary and Russia, under a compact similar to that which is now proposed. It is easier to get into a complication of this kind than to get out of it.

At any conference of the great powers, called for the prevention of war, the majority of the powers would demand the right to execute any plan they might favor. If the United States should disagree with them it would be compelled to yield its judgment to theirs or run the risk of being regarded as an enemy. Withdrawal from a conference would be regarded as an unfriendly act by the powers concerned.

The proposal for a "conference pact" cloaks a subtle scheme to commit the United States to support the status quo, in which great powers hold restive peoples in subjection. Americans should think twice before they approve a plan to make the United States responsible in part for the preservation of other countries and their colonies and dominions.

PARTY TREACHERY.

President Hoover's breakfast conference with Republican leaders in Congress and the repercussions on Capitol Hill brought no promise of early action on the tariff bill. In the face of heavy odds against any such development, the President has been hoping that the Senate would settle down to work and get the tariff bill out of the way. He called the Senate leaders together to ask if he could be of any service in expediting its passage. But these leaders are as helpless as the President himself in speeding up this or other legislation awaiting action by the Senate.

The root of the trouble is that the Republican party is in the minority in the Senate because about a dozen members have deserted its ranks. The coalition is in charge of the tariff bill. Any attempt to expedite its passage is futile without the aid of this Democratic-insurgent combination. Should the President attempt to bring pressure to bear the opposition would be accentuated, and the general result might be further delay and confusion. There seems to be no hope for an improvement so long as party traitors are elected to the Senate as Republicans.

Abuse is heaped upon the Senate because of its stagnation and impotence. The Senate as a body does not deserve such censure, but the individual senators who are responsible for this condition do. Both parties campaigned in 1928 on platforms indorsing a protective tariff. Now a majority in the Senate have deserted that standard and are driving import duties below the 1922 level. Administration leaders are powerless either to stop this onslaught or to expedite enactment of the bill. The resulting chaos should be charged to the Republican deserters and not to the finance committee or to the White House.

The schism in the Republican ranks is deeper-seated than the tariff controversy. Division of the party into political blocs which are not responsible to any leadership is the crux of the problem. The Senate would no doubt function smoothly if the party nominally in power had a working majority. The problem is not the disintegration of the Senate itself but the masquerading of deserters under the name of Republicanism.

FUTILE STRAW VOTES.

The Literary Digest is to take a nation-wide poll on the prohibition question. This will be interesting, but the poll will not necessarily be convincing. Fabian Franklin, former professor of mathematics at Johns Hopkins, made an "analysis" of the Literary Digest's poll in 1928, which proved to any one who wished to be convinced that Mr. Smith was bound to win the election. In the latter part of October the New York World, stanch supporter of Mr. Smith, discussed the so-called "drifts," which it characterized as "simply amazing," concluding that "the prospects for victory are bright."

Almost anything can be proved by analyzing the returns in a straw vote. The Literary Digest may select the centers to be polled with the utmost care in an effort to circularize equally extensively both wet and dry areas, but whether the result shows wet or dry the other side will be able to discuss drifts, corrections, &c., and prove to its own satisfaction that the figures do not mean what they seem to show. The result of a straw vote on prohibition will be the waste of whatever sum it costs.

BUYING UP EUROPE'S RELICS.

European countries and England are outraged by the exportation of their ancient historical buildings and choice pieces of architecture to America. Many wealthy Americans have a habit of buying up all objects of this kind they can get their hands on. The protest of European people was vehement enough when this kind of bargaining was confined to rare books, valuable paintings and other works of art, but since Americans have begun to transport entire buildings across the Atlantic the protest has become a storm.

A bill has been introduced in the British Parliament, providing that the owner of any ancient building may not export it without giving notice to the commissioner of works, who, in turn, would be required to consult the ancient monuments board. Those bodies or any individual resident, would be authorized to institute court proceedings to stop the proposed spoliation.

A large portion of the American people is in sympathy with legislation of this kind. The United States would resent any attempt to export American relics to foreign countries. Historic buildings and landmarks ought to be left in the country where they belong. When taken out of their own environment they become meaningless and worthless. In the general interests of historic truth the practice ought to be stopped.

Americans who use their wealth to transplant ancient European buildings to this country are reflecting no credit upon themselves or their country. The indiscriminate purchase of British or French antiques of this kind is crude vanity and misuse of wealth. Americans already have the reputation of caring little for their heritage. This impression is confirmed by the importation of Europe's ancient buildings. Money could be spent to far greater advantage in the preservation of America's historical structures.

GASOLINE MONOPOLY CHARGED.

The Government filed a petition in equity at San Francisco last week, charging nineteen oil companies operating on the Pacific Coast with a conspiracy to monopolize and to restrain interstate trade and commerce by maintaining fixed prices for the sale of gasoline. The defendant companies sell more than 1,500,000,000 gallons of gasoline annually, or practically 100 per cent of the entire supply of gasoline available to retailers and consumers throughout California, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Utah and Nevada. It is charged that the defendants not only have by agreement fixed uniform and non-competitive prices but have coerced independent service station operators to sell only at the prices so fixed, by cutting off their supply. It is further charged that the so-called independent oil producing companies, which are presumed to compete with the larger companies, have participated in the conspiracy by agreeing to retail gasoline to the public at the prices fixed by the larger companies who, in turn, agree to buy from the independents whatever gasoline they may be unable to sell to the public at the established price.

The fate of this petition will be watched with interest. Abundant evidence indicates that the gasoline industry is in the grip of a vast monopoly. Such a thing as real competition has been unheard of for years. Not only in the Far West, but in every locality in the country gasoline is sold for a fixed price which obviously is arbitrarily determined. The distance from the source of supply has no bearing on price. The varying demand from winter to summer is reflected in increased prices in summer, when the demand is greatest. Although the industry is beset with overproduction, the economic factor that is used to explain the depressed price of farm commodities, the trend is toward higher prices. No one doubts that the practices said by the Government to prevail on the Pacific Coast, obtain generally throughout the country.

Gasoline has become a fundamental necessity, and the country can not afford to have it monopolized.

IN CUBA

By FRED H. LANGWORTHY,
In the Christian Science Monitor.

Nature has helped this Pearl of the Caribbean, uniting its beauty and utility with the charm of the tropics. Climate, soil and situation work together in such harmony that almost anything that grows anywhere grows there. Its metals range from gold to lead; its forests yield the most precious woods; its sun-bleached plains produce 5,000,000 tons of sugar a year; its jungles teem with game and its tall mountains overlook one of the loveliest and bluest seas in the world.

The Cuban of today is Americanized to a large degree, probably much more than any other Latin. Thousands act, think, talk and look like Americans, wear American clothes, ride in American cars, use American furniture and machinery, send their children to American schools and eat some American food. Many of them speak English and a knowledge of the tongue is becoming more and more necessary every day.

Much of the Old World touch is given Cuba through the many Spaniards, chiefly Galicians and Asturians, and their direct descendants, who call Cuba home. All maintain the proverbial Spanish pride, cling tenaciously to their customs and form the backbone of many Cuban enterprises. Without them Cuba would probably not be as advanced as it is. They form the aristocracy of Cuba in reality, although there are plenty of Cuban families which occupy the same plane.

Today no ripple disturbs the Cuban's friendship for the Spaniards, and as a race the Spaniards are too much like Americans to feel resentment for what is past.

A mark of the Old World noticeable in Cuba is the system of street peddlers. In the fruit season the songs of the peddlers are heard on every street. After nightfall other men come with small pushcarts selling ice cream, ringing a small bell. Scissors-grinders use a set of pipes. Vendors of all manner of cloth have a musical bell attached to their cart, but the Cuban housewife learns the sound of each and knows without looking through her shutters what each man is selling.

In their home life the Cuban families are happy, and the family ties are very close. Their homes are commodious, with thick walls to keep out the heat of the sun, high ceilings, and only shutters to cover the windows.

Each street is a narrow chasm between two solid rows of stone fronts to the edge of the narrow sidewalks and anywhere from two to four stories high. Each floor of the building is a residence of one family, or the family may occupy two floors, or again a floor may be divided into small apartments, for two or more small families. All are of stone, with tile floors, iron-grilled balconies over the street, and marble stairways.

The Cuban women have not as yet the privilege of voting, and due to the Old World idea of their men, spend their time in the home. However, a revolt against the traditions of yesterday can now be seen to some extent, and among the younger Cuban girls there is a tendency to take an active part in the business world. Schools for shorthand and typewriting have been established. More and more of the young women are studying practical business courses and taking positions in office and store.

The Cubans are often accused of laziness by Americans, but a trip to Havana usually shows the fallacy of the accusation. It is true the Cuban has a "siesta" from 11 to 2, but few can work in the intense heat of noon. It is true that he procrastinates at times. Yet the visitor sees huge developments being made in highways, public works, schools, hospitals and construction; he finds Cuba teeming with activity; he finds Havana a busy, hustling metropolis of industry and commerce, and wonders at the progressiveness.

He finds Havana a city of huge buildings, wonderful architecture, modern stores and hotels, undreamed of cleanliness and beauty. He finds the country well developed in farms and plantations. He finds a huge natural harbor busy with world commerce, energy and enterprise on all sides, and laziness almost unknown. The scope of the work of the Cuban department of public works is huge, embracing the construction of the national highway from end to end of the island, building of a huge aqueduct which will make drought an unknown thing in the dry parts of the island, and other improvements which are steadily making Cuba one of the most progressive of Pan-American nations. The new capitol building in Havana is considered the most beautiful building in Latin America, surpassing that of the United States in size and magnificence.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE GATE.

"Heighho!" said a soul at the pearly door,
"Now where are the notions I held before
On the good old earth
Of the body's worth
And what was proper and meet to do?
And where are the truths that I thought I knew?

"Look at the crowds of them drawing nigh;
All of them spirits as meek as I!
And will you look
At the roads they took,
Winding, narrow, and curved and straight
And all of them here at the pearly gate!

"By earthly reason I'd never have said
These would rank with the honored dead.
I'd never have thought
From the way they fought,
Quarreled and battled for fame and place
They'd ever have won to the good Lord's grace.

"I've lost my notions, and that seems strange!
Can death so quickly a mortal change?
Have I ceased to boast
What I treasured most?
Can it be that I've banished all sense of pride?
And learned new values because I've died?

"Nobody talks of his fortune here
Or boasts his wisdom, and that seems queer,
No creeds divide,
But side by side
In the bond of kinship meet low and high,
As if souls are eternal and follies die."

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A GREAT German philosopher who despaired of achieving happiness argued that the nearest approach to it could be accomplished by avoiding the things that cause unhappiness.

Assuming that to be true—and certainly it is true in part—how can a man identify the things that will cause unhappiness and thus be warned against them?

The obvious answer is that he can judge the future by the past, and by analyzing unhappy experiences of the past can discover the cause of them.

If your memory is good, and you have learned to think honestly, try the experiment.

You will discover that almost all of your unhappy memories concern forms of punishment earned by your own misconduct.

If you are a devotee of religion, you may call that misconduct "sin;" if you are a moralist, you may call it "wrong;" if you are a philosopher, you may call it "folly."

But no matter what name you apply to it, the fact remains that it was something you should not have done—something you did in violation of law, in violation of your conscience, or in violation of common sense.

You lost some money because you were weak enough to sign a note when your good sense warned you against it.

You endured shame and humiliation because you chose the cowardly way and lied to escape criticism.

You suffered agonies of embarrassment because you were foolish enough to pretend to be what you were not and some unbeliever exposed you.

You were too stubborn to confess yourself in the wrong; you played with temptation for the thrill of it; you spent too much money because you wished to impress somebody; you ate or drank too much; you were too weak to say "no."

In every instance you acted contrary to your better judgment or your sense of right.

To say that you made mistakes is merely an effort to fool yourself, for you knew what you were doing and knew the sequel would be unpleasant.

How simple, then, is the method of avoiding unhappiness!

Merely choose the way suggested by your common sense and your sense of decency.

Merely avoid making a fool of yourself.

Regret causes most of man's unhappiness, and it is a crop he sows with his eyes wide open.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MORE NEWS FROM THE WINTER RESORTS.

St. Augustine, Fla.—Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Zilche have arrived here by automobile from their home in Dayton, Ohio. The unhappy couple make the trip by car every season if it kills them. This year Mr. Zilch looked particularly weakened by back-seat driving. "I'll be all right again by the time we're ready to start back," he sighed wearily from his hotel bed today.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Dilldoch and their police dog Napoleon also tooled into town by auto this morning, looking much the worse for wear after a 1,400-mile drive from Springfield, Mass. The dog stood it as long as it could, but turned on Mr. Dilldoch and bit him passing through Brunswick, Ga. Mr. Dilldoch stood it as far as Jacksonville, where he bit both the dog and Mrs. Dilldoch.

Col. and Mrs. Jeptha Willetts, who come here year after year without having much of an idea how to enjoy themselves, are spending their usual two weeks arguing with hackmen and storekeepers over rates.

The croquet players are at it in the public square and the amenities incurred have exceeded the 1929 figures by 20 per cent so far, with the season still young.

The guides outside the old Spanish fort on the waterfront are pretty disgusted. Two Northern schoolgirls walked up to them this week and asked if it were off here that the Maine was sunk.

ORMOND.

Gathering at the first tee every morning at 10 o'clock to see the world's most famous golfer drive off is still the chief outdoor sport here. No, not Bobby Jones; John D. Rockefeller.

Mr. Rockefeller plays eight holes a day. He is 90 years old and that is also his average score.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Prunedish, who are spending a few days here, will wait one day more. If the oil king doesn't give them a new dime they will denounce him and leave.

Motoring up and down the beach between here and Daytona Beach continues to be the favorite recreation of thousands of visitors whose ideas of diversion are hard to understand.

DAYTONA BEACH.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory D. L. Whipsaw are both confined to their beds under the care of doctors. They answered one of those newspaper advertisements reading, "Lady and gentleman motoring South in five-passenger car can accommodate another congenial couple." The gentleman turned out to be an unreformed dirt-track automobile racer. The lady, according to Mrs. Whipsaw, was no lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Mulligitawney, of Penobscot, Me., who came here by flivver, are very indignant because, although there are three or four free bridges across the Halifax River they had to choose the one toll bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Cupcake and their daughter, Abbie, who arrived here with a new camera Thursday, have used up their tenth film taking pictures of one another in front of the swell hotels, although they are putting up at a boarding house.

Maj. T. Haithwaite Palooka, who came here by auto, is waxing quite indignant because he was held up by police put on the roads in the Florida fruit-fly quarantine. "Do I look like a fruit fly?" he demands. People are slow in answering him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Washington Outdoor Animal Art Should Be Strictly American.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some time ago, when Secretary Wilbur chose the buffalo in place of the eagle for the seal of the Interior Department, the substitution met with general approval.

Would it not be a good thing if in the city parks and thoroughfares there was a portrayal of animal life limited to the characteristic natural history of the United States? Already in the buffalo of the Q Street Bridge at Rock Creek we have a fine example of the Americanization of al fresco animal statuary.

If these bridge buffalo were supplemented by moose in place of the lions that now ornament the Connecticut Avenue Bridge the effect would be pleasing. In fact, it might be well to banish alien animals from the city's statuary altogether.

Such an arrangement would be welcome to all judicious citizens. It would certainly give a rare relish to the enjoyment of the sightseer from abroad if on every hand he ran across representatives of native American fauna in the outdoor art of Washington, with no foreign beasts or birds to spoil the general effect.

This idea shaped itself in my mind not long after the appearance of the Sixteenth street tigers on the bridge over Piney Branch Valley. It found expression at that time in the following sincere, if inadequate, doggerel:

THE BRIDGE TIGERS.

Tigers, with your Old World leer,
Couchant on the bridge-end here,
I am thrilled from top to toe
With an antiforeign glow
As your feline forms I scan,
Spiteful un-American.

Oh, you're graceful, sleek, I know,
Built not less for strength than show.
But your look appeals to me
Less than that of wapiti,
Less than that of buffalo,
Or than that of moose, reindeer,
Musk ox, mule deer, Texas steer.

Fitter surely, graven there
In your place the grizzy bear,
Of his native continent
Foremost husky ornament.
Fearlessly he fronts the foe,
Rude and ruthless; and, although
He is not a beauty bright,
He could lick you in a fight.

Mediterranean Countries Should Control That Sea—France's Position as Seen by a Frenchman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The naval parley does not seem to offer to France any option but to agree that the United States, Japan and England shall have superior tonnage, and that Italy shall have parity, even though the Italians have no extensive colonies or trade routes to protect. It would seem, moreover, that Mussolini is willing to forfeit to some extent the submarine, if by so catering to England's aims he can win for his country the much sought parity with France. If submarines were outlawed, would not English dreadnoughts and cruisers have an easy time bombarding the French coast in case of war?

The Mediterranean sea should be controlled jointly by the countries of its littoral; namely, Greece, Egypt, Italy, France, Spain, Turkey, Jugoslavia and Albania. England's interests certainly should not overshadow those of all the countries in the Mediterranean area. If England can have the United States back her up, even to the point of building a greater navy lest Italy and France should some day combine against her, then she will have won anew her sea supremacy. If France agrees to the British demands she is licked. And yet if she stands by her rights she will be isolated, perhaps held responsible for failure of the conference. She surely will be a much despised France then! It is obvious that France would have done much better to have kept away altogether from the London parley. The writing on the wall is already as plain as day.

Bad Traffic Confusion at Thomas Circle Until Lights Are Regulated.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The traffic lights at Thomas circle were put into operation Saturday morning. Saturday evening at about 5 o'clock, while passing the circle, I noticed that the lights were not working and that traffic was jammed. Monday morning, when passing the circle at about 9 o'clock, I noticed that the lights were not working and there were five policemen on hand directing traffic.

Traffic on the eight streets which intersect at the circle is held up for 23 seconds while pedestrians cross. Then the green light appears, permitting the traffic to advance from all eight intersections, which results in a traffic tangle during the rush hours. Some means should be devised whereby traffic on four of the side streets should be allowed to advance while that on the other four streets is held up. Unless something is done to relieve the congestion at rush hours the lights will probably have to be abolished. The traffic department should be able to devise a system to better the present situation.

Eight Cities Are Quizzed by a Missouri Mossback.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An old "mossback" from the hills of Missouri will ask eight cultured, typical American cities some questions:

Boston—Has Boston still got the "Spirit of '76?"

New York—Is New York more prosaic than poetic?

Philadelphia—Has science eclipsed "brotherly love" in Philadelphia?

Washington—Is it poetic romance that leads "newlyweds" to Washington.

Columbus—Is the "Ohio idea" a local chivalry?

Detroit—Is Detroit training the world's knights to ride on wheels?

Chicago—Could a Homer make heroes of champions in a "pineapple" war?

Emporia—What's the last word from Kansas?

CANCER TREATMENT PUBLICITY DEPLORED

California Discovery Is Not Cure in Popular Sense, Journal Asserts.

SUFFERERS' TREK BEGUN

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The Journal of the American Medical Association in its next issue will express regret at the widespread publicity given the Coffey-Tumber cancer treatment now being experimented with in California, because, it will say, false hopes have been aroused in cancer sufferers.

"Regardless of the fact that Drs. Coffey and Humber have stated in their communication to the Journal and in letters sent to patients that their work is purely experimental; that they do not claim to have developed a cancer cure in the popular sense of that word; that they have no evidence that their preparation is anything more than a substance which produces lytic changes in cancer cells following injection, the great trek of cancer sufferers across the continent has begun and physicians everywhere are besought by their patients to procure this remedy," the Journal will say:

"As the Journal has pointed out, various substances have been developed in the past that will produce lytic changes in cancer cells. A present, Hanson, of Minnesota, has developed a similar extract from the thymus of the calf, and Charlton reports that extracts of reticulo-endothelial tissue will produce the same response.

"Under these circumstances it is nothing less than criminal for newspapers to arouse the hopes of cancer sufferers and to cause the families of such sufferers to expend the limit of their funds to make the journey to California."

Borglum now is at work on a blueprint of the space in which the history is to be etched. He will determine how many letters, large enough to be read three miles away, can be used in each of the eight chapters. Each chapter deals with an epochal event in the Nation's history.

With the blueprint as a guide, Mr. Coolidge will write the text and forward it to the committee on design. Mr. Borglum expects to have the figures of Washington and Jefferson and the text of the chapters in which they figure—Declaration of Independence and the signing of the Constitution—ready for dedication ceremony July 4.

Mr. Borglum reminded Mr. Coolidge that the dedication was on the former President's birthday, adding that he scarcely could miss such an event.

Mr. Hazlett, Mr. Salus and Mr. Douglas left today for Philadelphia. Mr. Vare is expected to follow within ten days. Mr. Douglas said there was no announcement to be made from Mr. Vare at this time, but that one might be made in Philadelphia shortly.

Meanwhile it was reported that Mr. Vare's nominating petitions for his candidacy for the Senate would begin circulation in Philadelphia tomorrow. Some of the petitions were said to be already in circulation in central Pennsylvania.

Mr. Vare's conferee joined him in a boat ride in his motor launch this morning over the St. Lucie River, which touches the front of the Vare estate. The water was choppy from a stiff north wind and several of the party were treated to impromptu baths as the waves broke against the sides of the boat. As soon as the craft docked Mr. Vare hurried into the house at the suggestion of other members of the party and refused to see questioners.

Mr. Douglas said Mr. Vare appeared in much better health than when he came here.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

NEW YORK and Massachusetts, each apparently paying no attention to the other, are drifting politically in a fashion calculated to give grave concern to President Hoover and Chairman Huston, of the Republican national committee. In New York the entire drift of the State G. O. P. leaders seems to be toward the nomination of Charles H. Tuttle for governor. As the opponent of Gov. Roosevelt, who will undoubtedly be renominated by the Democrats, Mr. Tuttle will represent a decisive victory for the drys.

Gov. Roosevelt has assured friends that if the legislature of New York should enact a State enforcement act—the State has had none since the Mullin Gage act was repealed under Gov. Smith—he will veto it. Thus he is branded as a wet, and may be further branded before election time, despite Mrs. Roosevelt's dry leanings as voiced to Women's Clubs.

Tuttle, the New York Republicans say, is a compromise of the strongest variety obtainable. He was not a Hoover man prior to the Kansas City convention, but he is acceptable to the Hoover leaders in the State. He is very highly regarded, and if the wet and dry issue could be kept down, and normal conditions could be obtained, he might look forward confidently to election.

* * * *

BUT the election just held in the second Massachusetts district—the home district not only of Senator Gillett, but of Calvin Coolidge—lying just a few miles to the east of the upper New York country where it will be necessary for Tuttle or whoever has the Republican nomination for governor to pile up some 500,000 majority if he is to have a chance of victory, is very disquieting to New York Republicans.

Calvin Coolidge found it necessary to be absent on election day, but for the first time in its history that district went Democratic. William J. Granfield won by around 6,500 plurality over Frederick D. Griggs. Now the wets are jubiliantly claiming that nothing but prohibition decided the contest, while the Democratic national committee is ignoring that factor and claiming that it was all due to resentment against the Hoover administration.

* * * *

BOTH the national committee and the wets are pointing out the volume of the overturn. In a very large vote, more than 57,000, a Democratic majority of nearly 7,000 was obtained as against a Republican majority of almost 9,000 two years ago, and a Republican majority of nearly 16,000 in 1926 when Henry L. Bowles was the Republican nominee.

But the real alarm in Republican circles here is about New York, which has now two Democratic senators, a Democratic governor, and a Democratic majority in her delegation to the House. The wet and dry issue seems an ever-present evil to the New York Republicans. They are damned if they do and damned if they don't. When Wadsworth last ran for the Senate he was beaten, because he was a wet, by defections to a dry Republican Independent—more than enough to have overcome Senator Wagner's plurality. So they lost with a wet. Now they are faced by the possibility, if New York up-State is anything like Massachusetts out-State, of having their candidate slaughtered because he is a dry.

Rural members of the House from New York and Massachusetts both are mostly dry and Republican. They are looking mighty hard for a silver lining.

IN 1870

A Prescription Made Him Famous

BACK IN 1870, when he established his clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce wrote the prescription which was used so successfully that he put it up in ready-to-use form, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Every druggist has it. Fluid or tablets.

All women who are run down—suffering from painful periods—and the many distressing ailments of womanhood—should write Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice.

One who knows the merit of Dr. Pierce's medicine said: "I had become in a badly rundown condition, had woman's weakness and functional disturbances. I suffered with severe backaches and cramps—was so weak that I would be in bed for a week at a time—could just barely drag around when I was up. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I did. While taking the first bottle I noticed a marked change in the feminine organism, and gradually it had me feeling better than I ever had at any previous time."

COUZENS BILL SEEKS NEW POWER GROUP

Changes in Commission Are Sought, While Strife in Unit Reaches Peak.

DATA WITHHELD, IS HINT

(Associated Press.)

Reorganization of the Federal Power Commission was proposed in a bill by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, as internal strife in the commission reached a peak yesterday with testimony before a Senate committee that one official was ejected from a hearing after he objected to what he called lax methods of auditing utilities companies' accounts.

Beginning an extensive investigation of the commission's activities, the interstate commerce committee heard the charge by Charles A. Russell, solicitor. He complained against F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the power commission.

Committee members attacked "secret" and "confidential" memoranda which testimony revealed as having been kept while negotiating over which the difficulties arose were in progress.

Letter Cites Memoranda Withholding.

Senator Couzens read into the record a letter explaining that some of these memoranda were being withheld from publication, though the commission offered them for private examination by the senators, because they dealt with pending negotiations and were "confidential."

Demanding to know why "any application" or "any negotiation" should not be public information, members of the committee asked Mr. Russell what he knew of the memoranda.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, challenged the suggestion that confidential negotiations might not be "salutary" for the public interest.

The solicitor replied that he personally disapproved the policy. Then he went into detailed accounts of the controversy in the commission, and of the wrongs he contended had been allowed by methods of accounting upon which he said Mr. Bonner has insisted.

Thrown Out, Says Russell.

Mr. Russell testified he was "thrown out" of a hearing "because I was asking too many questions." He said he referred to a hearing last October on applications for permits to develop power at Flathead Lake, Mont. During early examinations, he said, he questioned witnesses to show that the Rocky Mountain Power Co., one applicant, would be supervised in its operations by "management companies."

"Mr. Bonner telephoned me on a Thursday morning," Mr. Russell testified, "and told me he did not like the questions I had been asking, and wanted me to stay away from the hearing."

The solicitor said he then remained away until the following Monday. Meanwhile, he testified, the matter was "brought to the attention of Secretary Wilbur," and he was "sent back."

Says Wilbur's Aid Gave Order.

Mr. Russell said after the hearing that Secretary Wilbur's secretary telephoned him and told him to go back to the hearing. Then, he said, he participated in it until it was completed.

The Couzens bill would establish a civilian commission of three members appointed by the President with senatorial consent. It would give them free scope to "make such expenditures as are necessary to execute its functions," and would authorize them to employ and fix salaries of an executive secretary, a chief engineer and one or more assistants, a general counsel and one or more assistants, a solicitor and "such experts, special counsel and examiners as it may find necessary."

Salaries would be $10,000 a year. The commissioners would be authorized to hold special hearings in any part of the United States. They would have rotating terms of six years, the bill providing that only two of the same political party might be appointed and that none named should have any connection with utilities corporations, even such as owning stocks or bonds.

CHICAGOAN IGNORED BY NEW YORK BANKS

FIRMS TO CONFER TODAY

Chicago, Feb. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, communicated today with Mayor Thompson, whom he represents, that he could dispose of $48,000,000 in tax warrants to New York bankers if certain local bankers will indorse the transaction. This is the fourth time that Mr. Caldwell has announced this situation. New York bankers are fighting shy of the deal because it smacks too much of Thompson overriding the Chicago bankers and the citizens' committee.

The way out, it is said, is for Mr. Caldwell to return home and do business with the citizens' committee and the banks, which will in turn sell the warrants to the New York bankers. The banks are now working with the citizens' committee and giving Mr. Caldwell and his deal little attention. The demands now before the bankers and the committee include the school warrants that Mr. Caldwell is hawking about New York.

Representatives of 50 of the largest taxpaying corporations in Chicago will be called before the combined Strawn and city committee tomorrow and asked how many millions of tax warrants they are prepared to take.

The citizens' committee, following a consultation with Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank, indicated it would come to the rescue of the 42,000 public employes whose pay has been lacking for several weeks.

Fifth Extra Legislative Session Called in Texas

Austin, Tex., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Gov. Moody today called a fifth extraordinary session of the Legislature to convene tomorrow. The proclamation was sent both Houses before they adjourned the fourth called session sine die. The governor resubmitted enactment of legislation to provide for the "reorganization and rehabilitation" to the Texas penitentiary system and the raising of "sufficient revenue to meet the supplemental demands of the State departments and institutions."

He also mentioned the House's decision to hear impeachment charges against Comptroller S. H. Terrell, accused by State Auditor Moore Lynn of violation of several laws in administration of his department, including diversion of public funds to his personal use.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

Russian Music Fete Planned By Mr. Tellez

By JEAN ELIOT.

WITH the Russian envoy but recently sent home from Mexico like a school boy in disgrace, there are most amusing aspects to the announcements just sent out that "The Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Tellez head the list of patrons and patronesses for the annual 'Evening of Russian Music' to be given on the night of March 18 at the Willard Hotel."

However, the explanation is simple enough. The entertainment is planned as a benefit for St. Alexander's Russian Orthodox Church, which is maintained by and for a handful of Russian residents of Washington whose affiliations were all with the old czarist regime. To them, of course, the Union of Soviet Republics is anathema and, equally of course, their relations with Mexico's representatives at Washington would be unaffected by the expedited recall of Mr. Alexander Makar, who had been serving as Soviet Minister in Mexico City.

St. Alexander's is used but occasionally for services, as the Russian colony in Washington is small and the headquarters of the Russian Orthodox Church in this country is in New York. But the church comes into the picture once in a while in an interesting way as it did when the Grand Duke Alexander came a visiting to Washington on a lecture tour and when he attended a service there, taking part in the ritual of distributing bread and salt which is part of the ceremonial of the Russian church.

Besides the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Tellez, the list of patrons for the concert includes the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen, Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, Prince and Princess J. A. Engelitcheff, Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, Senator William H. King, and Senator David I. Walsh.

The artists chosen are Mr. Michael Shvetz, bass, formerly with the Russian Imperial Theater, and now with the Philadelphia Opera Company; Miss Perle Barti, who has sung before the Queen of Spain, and has been featured with many famous artists, and Mr. Nikolas Nopekeine, pianist.

For the performance of "Janice Meredith," which the Junior Theater will present on Saturday afternoon and evening, many Junior Theater members have made reservations, including Mme. Debuchi, Mrs. Smith Hempstone, Mrs. Price Whitaker, Mrs. Demarest Lloyd, Mrs. Victor Whitlock, Mrs. E. I. Lewis, Mrs. William C. Sturgis, Mr. Frank B. Steele, Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Mrs. Barron P. DuBois and Mrs. William D. Chandler, jr.

Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, will be at home this afternoon, but will not receive next Wednesday.

Mrs. Davis will leave town on Saturday with Mrs. James Elwood Jones for Florida. They will go first to Miami. Later Mrs. Jones will join her mother, Mrs. Marshall Jenkins, and her sister, Mrs. Carl Boerntrager, of Pittsburgh, and will go to Havana for a short stay. Mrs. Davis will return to Washington on the morning of March 4.

Mme. Debuchi, wife of the Ambassador of Japan, was the guest for whom Mrs. Charles H. March gave a luncheon yesterday.

Concert Held As First Lady Takes Guests

Mrs. Hughes, Miss Dyer Attend Fete With Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. Hoover attended the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra concert at Constitution Hall yesterday, having as guests Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes and Miss Susan L. Dyer. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are in Washington for a few days, staying at the Mayflower, and yesterday morning the new Chief Justice of the Supreme Court paid his first call on President Hoover since his nomination to the post of presiding judge of the Nation's highest tribunal.

Earlier yesterday Mrs. Hoover was a guest at the luncheon of the ladies of the Senate, held in the conference room at the Capitol, with Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the president pro tempore of the Senate, presiding.

When Mrs. Calvin Coolidge was First Lady she frequently attended informal gatherings of this official club, having been, as wife of the Vice President, its president ex officia for a number of years. Mrs. Hoover, of course, was never a "Senate Lady," but many of the members of the group are her friends and this opportunity to foregather with them in informal fashion was greatly enjoyed by hostesses and guest.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, was the guest in whose honor Maj. and Mrs. Parker West entertained at dinner last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann being also in the company.

Maj. and Mrs. West will entertain at dinner next Wednesday evening in honor of the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, and again on March 2 when Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone will be guests of honor.

Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, were hosts at dinner last evening at the Mayflower, entertaining in compliment to the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Others present were Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, Senator and Mrs. Frederic C. Walcott, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Representative and Mrs. James S. Parker, Representative and Mrs. Allen T. Treadway, Representative Isaac Bacharach, Representative and Mrs. Frederick R. Lehlbach, Representative Louis T. McFadden, Representative and Mrs. Henry W. Watson, Representative and Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell, Representative and Mrs. Wallace H. White, jr., Representative and Mrs. James P. Glynn, Representative and Mrs. Schuyler Merritt, Representative and Mrs. Robert L. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Daggett, of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herberman, Miss Vera Bloom and Miss Louise Hoyt Merritt.

Mrs. Walter F. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, will receive this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock in her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel. Mrs. Brown will be assisted by Mrs. Everett Sanders, Mrs. Thad Brown and Mrs. James Jones, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Mrs. James M. Beck has gone to New York, where her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Beck, jr., have been staying for several days, and tomorrow Representative Beck will join the party to remain through this week. Mr. and Mrs. Beck will return with Representative and Mrs. Beck. They expect to sail for England, where they make their home, the last of this month.

Among those present from the diplomatic group were the Ambassador of Turkey, Ahmed Mouhtar Bey; the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Group Named For Concert By Miss Moore

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Is Among Sponsors of Stratford Fete.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is a member of the committee which is arranging a concert, featuring Miss Grace Moore, to be held at the home of Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis on Monday evening, March 3, at 10 o'clock. The purpose of this entertainment is to raise funds for the development of Stratford, birthplace of Robert E. Lee and of two signers of the Declaration of Independence, as a national shrine.

Others serving on this committee are Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews, Mrs. Rozier Dulany, Mrs. Hanson Ely, jr., a granddaughter of Gen. Lee; Mrs. Eustis, Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. John Philip Hill, Miss Sara Lee, Mrs. Adolf C. Miller, Mrs. Corcoran Thom, Mrs. Horace Lee Washington and Mrs. Joseph Washington, who is chairman of the Washington committee for the Stratford Memorial Association.

Opportunity occasionally knocks twice. Those who missed hearing Miss Moore, one of the most brilliant of the Metropolitan Opera's group of young singers, when she appeared at one of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's morning musicales, will welcome this second chance and certainly those who were present will be only too glad of the opportunity to hear her again. She has a golden voice and so much charm that no one could say, as of some opera singers, that she should "sing behind a screen."

Invitations to subscribe to this recital are being sent out and it will have an especially delightful aspect from being given in Mrs. Eustis' spacious residence, which was the home of her father, the late Levi P. Morton, when he was Vice President.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. McClellan will entertain at dinner on Wednesday, February 26.

Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock has issued invitations for a musicale tomorrow evening at 9:30 o'clock when the artists will be Miss Gretta Bon, Scot-

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BETTER BABY DEATH ROLL.

BABIES did not fare quite as well in 1928 as they did in the preceding year. Nevertheless, the baby death rate of the United States, taking the country and city together, is very close to 50, the figure which New Zealand set for us in 1914 and which we have been trying since then to reach.

As in all previous years since the American Child Health Association began these yearly reports the States of the Pacific slope have proved their class, the cities of that region outranking those of other parts of the country.

In this year's report the cities of Washington State rank first, followed by Idaho, Oregon, North Dakota, Utah, California, Minnesota, Nebraska, Connecticut, Montana, Vermont, New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Wisconsin, Florida, New Jersey, Indiana, Rhode Island, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New Hampshire, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, Wyoming, Maryland, Maine, Louisiana, Colorado, Mississippi, Virginia, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina and Arizona. Since Texas, New Mexico and South Dakota do not keep books there is no way of knowing whether they are bankrupt. The three Pacific Coast States are in the first six and of this group two of the remainder are nearby mountain States. Among the upper Mississippi Valley ratings are: North Dakota, fourth; Minnesota, seventh. New England gets ninth with Connecticut, the South sixteenth with Florida.

Among the cities of 250,000 and over Seattle and Portland divided first honors, followed by San Francisco. Among the cities of 100,000 to 250,000 Oakland leads, followed by Spokane, Des Moines and Cambridge.

Among those with 50,000 to 100,000, Berkeley leads, with Union City, N. J., and Long Beach, Calif., following. Among those with 25,000 to 50,000, Alameda, Calif., stood first, followed by Medford, Mass.; Oak Park, Ill., and Everett, Mass. In the group with populations of 10,000 to 25,000, Holland, Mich., was low, followed by Braintree, Mass., and Stonington, Conn.

Racial stocks entering into the population was a considerable factor in the health of babies. The Scandinavian stocks can be counted on to have healthy, vigorous babies. How much of this is due to foods and family customs and how much to some peculiarity of the stock no man can say. On the other hand; the Slavic peoples have trouble in rearing their babies. The Italians come in between, but nearer the Slav end of the line. Negroes and Mexicans have high sickness rates always and everywhere.

SMOKING WILL NOT HELP.

Miss N. writes: I am a young girl and bothered with bad breath constantly. It is worse when I first wake up and after eating. I attend the dentist regularly. Is there any help? Would smoking help me?

REPLY.

Smoking will not help you.

If your teeth are all right, what about your tonsils and your nose?

If neither is at fault, your diet must be wrong.

Live largely on milk and foods made from it. Eat some breads and other starchy foods. Eat liver or kidney occasionally to supply iron. Eat plenty of fruit and vegetables.

BUCK ROGERS, 2429 A. D. — Lieut. Burk Disappears — By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

ILLANA'S STRONGEST WEAKNESS SEEMS TO BE BURK.
THAT'S WHY I INTRODUCED HIM. OTHERWISE IT MIGHT BE YOU.
YOU EARTH-MEN ARE SO SWEET AND GENTLE. MARTIANS ARE TERRIBLY FIERCE!
YOU HAVEN'T SEEN US IN ACTION YET!
OH MY DARLING, I'D LOVE TO MARRY YOU AND STAY ON EARTH - B-BUT MY PEOPLE - AND GRALLO - HE'D GO WILD!
I WON'T ASK HIM. I'LL TELL HIM! COME ON, LET'S FIND HIM.
THE NEXT MORNING
COLONEL ROGERS, LIEUTENANT BURK HAS DISAPPEARED!
WHAT? WHERE WAS HE SEEN LAST?

ELLA CINDERS—Tools of Escape — By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb

Ella, and the captain are prisoners of Watters Neek, who is leading the mutiny on her motion picture ship.
NEEK THINKS HE HAS US OUTWITTED! BUT STONE WALLS DO NOT A PRISON MAKE, NOR IRON BARS A CAGE — IF YOU KNOW HOW TO GET OUT!
WHEN TIMES ARE HARD, GO INTO THE HARDWARE BUSINESS! I HAD A FILE, STEEL SAW, AND REVOLVER HIDDEN WHEN NEEK LOCKED ME IN!
RIGHT! YOU TAKE THE SAW — I'LL TAKE THE FILE — AND LET THE BARS FALL WHERE THEY MAY!

GASOLINE ALLEY — There's Always Something

GLOOK, I'VE MET YOUR TERMS OF 20 PERCENT OF MY PROFITS IN THIS DEAL IF IT GOES OVER AND STILL YOU KEEP HEDGING. WALLET IS IN THE SOUTH AND I WANT TO SPRING IT WHILE HE'S AWAY.
NOW DON'T GET IMPETUOUS, CORPUS. A LOT OF RECORDS WILL HAVE TO BE FIXED UP. I'M NOT RUSHING IN. I'M GOING TO FADE IN — AND THEN FADE OUT.
AS MME. OCTAVE'S ATTORNEY I WILL TAKE THE NEW FOUND WILL TO LONDON AND THROUGH MY SOLICITORS HAVE A BARRISTER PRESENT IT TO THE COURT.
I'D LIKE TO HAVE OCTAVE IN ON THIS DOCUMENT BUT SHE ISN'T DEPENDABLE. SHE MIGHT DRAW THE LINE AT A FAKE WILL. SHE MUST THINK IT GENUINE.
I WAS AFRAID SO. AMONG THE ARRIVALS AT NEW YORK — MME. OCTAVE! IF GLOOK WASN'T SO FINICKY IT WOULD HAVE BEEN FOUND WHILE SHE WAS ABROAD. NOW IT WILL LOOK BAD TO HAVE IT TURN UP JUST AFTER SHE COMES BACK!

GEE WHAT A DAY TO FLY!.... I'D LIKE TO BE UP IN THE CLOUDS IN THIS PLANE... I WISH ELMER AND TUBBY COULD SEE ME NOW....

THE GUMPS — Lucky Dog

PEOPLE TRAVEL THE WORLD OVER IN SEARCH OF PEACE AND QUIET — THEY GO UP INTO THE MOUNTAINS — SEEK DIFFERENT CLIMATES TO GET RID OF THEIR WORRIES AND BLUES — BUT RIGHT HERE I FIND MY TONIC — THIS HOME ATMOSPHERE — IS MY CURE
WHAT A RARE TREAT IT IS IN THIS CRAZY AGE TO FIND A COUPLE AS DEVOTED AS YOU TWO — JUST HONEY MOONERS — AND THAT'S THE WAY IT SHOULD BE — YOU'LL ALWAYS BE A BRIDE AND GROOM
ANDY — YOU'RE LUCKY — AND WHEN YOU HAVE A GOOD WIFE LIKE YOU HAVE — HANG ON TO HER — NOTHING IS TOO GOOD FOR HER — REMEMBER THAT — AND YOU SHOULD BE PROUD — I HOPE YOU REALIZE WHAT A JEWEL SHE IS

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

In style No. 8289 in pale green batiste, the smocking shows smart contrast worked in yellow.

The dress is cut with panel front and back that is part of yoke and kimona sleeves, which makes it especially easy to make. Either side of the panel front and back is smocked to fit the yoke and is then joined to panel front and back.

It is made with 1¾ yards of 39-inch material with 1¾ yards of binding in the 4-year size.

Pink linen with turn-over collar of white linen piped around edge which also is used to finish edge of sleeves is dainty.

Sprigged dimity in rose-pink shades with white organdie collar piped with the dimity, flesh colored crepe de chine with self-piping, beige wool jersey smocked in brown, red and white printed lawn, French blue gingham and orchid and white checked gingham would make any little girl happy.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

"It Controls the Nerves"
"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I could not stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now, and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your medicine to many girls with the same good results."—Ethel Fleetwood, 3023 Bandir. Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

The One and Only
MITZI
That was the UNANIMOUS Verdict of WASHINGTON CRITICS
"Who Know"
But, after all, "Sari" is Mitzi. To those who love her, she can not go wrong in the part, and in the fatuous manner of all play reviewers, I simply say that any one who misses her this week is missing a delightful actress in a delectable delineation, and if you can turn out better alliteration than that at 1 o'clock of a morning, you're a better man than I am; turn it in.—Miss Mabelle Jennings, Washington News.
"Sari" is surprisingly up to date. It doesn't creak. It has the life and joy of living that are inherent in the gypsy art. What is more, the cast tackles the show with a zest and pepfulness, possibly inspired by the star or by the gay Hungarian music of the score, but however inspired, most helpful in giving the audience an enjoyable evening. "Sari" is all that, and more.—Lee Somers, Herald.
It is refreshing in the modern wilderness of jazz to happen upon an oasis such as "Sari." Those who have wandered patiently and long in the maze of futuristic "hey-hey" and have felt a certain tinge of weariness steal over their artistic souls, would do well to hie themselves to the National this week for that much-needed change and rest.—Star.
For those who like to spend a pleasant evening in the Land of Make-Believe, it is well worth the time and the price of admission—Post.
Mitzi acts with considerable abandon the saucy Hungarian gypsy maid who flirts with the king and eats spaghetti gracefully. The costumes are a riot of tasteful color and to the well-trained Albertina Rasch ballet "Sari" owes much of its merit as entertainment. These dancing interludes are truly a rhythmic delight.—Arthur Kelley, Times.

34 TRUE BILLS FILED BY GRAND JURY HERE

Charges Against Ten Ignored by Inquisitorial Body Yesterday.

GAMING COUNT DROPPED

While returning 34 indictments yesterday covering various charges, the District of Columbia grand jury ignored charges against ten persons.

Charges of violating the Jones-Stalker act were ignored in three instances, although seven persons were charged with violating the law. Those against whom the Jones-Stalker charges were ignored are Martha Brown, John Keys and Giles Brown. Those charged with violating the law are Carson P. Stant and Henry P. Rhelms, Percy Robert Kelser, Walter Drady Ward, Willie Olin Bell and Maggie Bell.

Bell is charged with four sales of whisky at the Mades Hotel, formerly the haunt of socially prominent Washingtonians. The hostelry now faces a padlock injunction under the national prohibition act.

Charges of setting up a gaming table preferred by the police several weeks ago against Louis Hurwitz and Joseph Fitzgerald were also ignored by the inquisitorial body. Hurwitz and Fitzgerald were arrested at 25 H street northwest, opposite the Government Printing Office. A number of employes of the printing office who were said to have been present when the raid was staged appeared before the grand jury as witnesses.

Man Is Acquitted Of Perjury Count

Accusations of Wife Are Not Substantiated by Prosecution.

Frank R. Swan was acquitted by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of perjury growing out of accusations of his former wife, Mrs. Irene Swan. Justice Peyton Gordon ordered the jury to return a directed verdict after the Government had been unable to substantiate testimony of Mrs. Swan that a soldier's bonus certificate which he swore had been lost had been found in a safe deposit box.

Swan was indicted on the perjury charge after he had presented to the Veterans' Bureau application for the issuance of a duplicate certificate. At the time, he is alleged to have stated, the certificate was lost. Mrs. Swan, on the stand, testified that Swan had given her the certificate and that later when he sought possession of it she refused. The wife produced the certificate in court, but Justice Gordon ruled that the woman's story should be substantiated.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins represented the Government, while Attorneys Louis L. Whitestone and William J. Sullivan appeared for Swan.

Prison Trusty, In for 10 Days, Quietly Walks Out

While no one was looking, Edward M. Ready, 39 years old, formerly of Rhode Island avenue near U street northeast, quietly walked out of the District Jail yesterday afternoon while on trusty duty. He had but two more days to serve on a 10-day sentence for drunkenness.

Police of the various precincts were given a description of Ready last night and told to be on the lookout for him.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

THOSE who attended the first night of Mitzi's revival, "Sari," at the National, came away with the belief that here is one young lady who has quaffed from the fountain of youth. "Yes," sighs Mr. Harold Phillips, the well-known playgoer, "Mitzi is just as young now as she was five years ago when I first went to the theater. In fact, younger!"

• • • •

Over on the south side of the Avenue, Miss Eleanor Painter has also captured popular fancy for her splendid portrayal of the three-way role in "The Fortune Teller." This is the protean part originated by Miss Alice Nielsen, who later came through town with her own opera company. In the production at Poli's is a Washington actor, Robert Pitkin, who is shaking a few years off himself and dancing around the stage like a two-year-old.

• • • •

Whereas this week in the theaters is devoted exclusively to music—two revivals of operettas—next week promises a better balance. Flo Ziegfeld's masterpiece, "Show Boat," comes to the National, where it first saw the light of theater, and Miss Ethel Barrymore takes her place on the stage at Poli's Theater in "The Love Duel," a play by Lili Hatvany, really Baroness Hatvany. This is her first ply to be seen in America. The adaptation was made by Zoe Akins.

• • • •

Mr. Leon Friedman, who has the honor of preceding "Show Boat" on its tour of America, rushes in to say that all has been well with this opera since it left its cradle days behind it here at the National. In fact, in the vernacular, the "Show Boat" troupe "has cleaned up." Mr. Friedman, knowing his wares, predicts another "sell out" week when the whistle toots on E street and old Cap'n Andy shouts "All Aboard." There have been only one or two changes in the cast since the Washington premiere last season.

• • • •

Mr. Randolph Hartley, overseas representative of the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company, coming here in early March with a repertoire of Shakespearean plays, was elated when he heard of the profitable week just closed by the competitive Chicagoans who were at Poli's—Fritz Leiber and his troupe. "It means," said Mr. Hartley, "that thinking people the world over are the same. There is a great demand for the Shakespearean plays. Everywhere we have gone, in Canada and America, we've played to packed houses. As yet we have not ventured into New York—and it looks as if we will keep free from that territory."

• • • •

Mr. George C. Tyler, the producer, was the first to give New York a wide berth whenever he had something he thought the country would like and New York might hammer down, though this is not the case with the Shakespeare players. On several occasions Mr. Tyler refused to take road successes into New York. If this sort of thing keeps up 'twill be a case of putting the shoe on the other foot. Once, no play was considered worth while unless it had the approval of New York. Now, it seems to be the other way round.

Dr. Ballou to Address Educators' Conference

A delegation, headed by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools, will attend the annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association which opens in Atlantic City this Friday.

Others, who will represent Washington at the convention are: Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, Miss Rose Hardy and Miss Jessie La Salle, all members of the District Board of Education. Dr. Ballou will deliver an address at the convention on the subject of "Achievement in American Education."

First Cousins, Each 19, Issued License to Wed

A license to permit Santo Santilli, 19 years old, of 61 K street northwest, to marry his first cousin, Miss Emilia Presutti, also 19 years old, of 41 H street northeast, was issued yesterday in District Supreme Court.

The young couple, neither of whom has been married before, specified that the Rev. N. M. De Carlo would officiate. Application for the license was made by Vincenze Santilli, said to be the father of the bridegroom.

Hospital to Hear "Fortune Teller"

Victor Herbert Opus Will Be Presented Today at Walter Reed.

Miss Eleanor Painter and members of "The Fortune Teller" company, now playing Poli's Theater, will entertain the boys at Walter Reed Hospital today at 2:30 o'clock. Arrangements were completed through the courtesy of The Washington Post, the Capital Traction Co. and the management of Poli's Theater.

"The Fortune Teller," the second Herbert contribution to the Victor Herbert festival, is full of Victor Herbert tuneful and popular melodies, such as "Gypsy Love Song," "The Lily and the Nightingale," "Romany Life" and "Only in the Way."

It is these delightful numbers that Miss Painter, with her magnificent mezzosoprano voice, and "the Fortune Teller" company, will sing today at Walter Reed, and should there be any among those present who remember the old days when "The Fortune Teller," with all its fire and sparkle, thrilled them with its beautiful melodies, they are sure to have their memories reawakened, for such is the charm and appeal of this Victor Herbert comic opera today. Among those who will accompany Miss Painter are William Powers, William J. McCarthy, Philip Conyers, Eric Titus, Harry Hermson, Sara Bair, Sophia Robins and Jack Rosman.

When the "Alarm Clock" Sounds Amoco Motor Oil* is READY

THE oil in your crank case hasn't the privilege of turning over for a last few minutes' delightful doze. It's cold, cold as you'd be if you'd been sleeping out with only a sheet of steel over you. But one last doze on the part of your oil, even for a half-a-minute, would mean serious damage to the vital, moving parts of your motor and an expensive repair bill for you.

So AMOCO Motor Oil doesn't doze. When you step on the starter and "turn on the alarm", AMOCO Motor Oil gets on the job without delay, alert, flowing freely, ready for a hard day's work. And, later on, when the temperature of your motor has risen to a point several times hotter than a summer's day on the Equator, AMOCO Motor Oil is still on its toes, never breaking down, giving your motor complete lubrication regardless of conditions.

When it's 'way below freezing a motor oil really has to be good and that's when AMOCO Motor Oil really proves its worth. Summer or winter, morning or night, you can depend on AMOCO Motor Oil for better lubrication.

Bridge Tips Revealed As Experts Play

Radio Audience in Work Series Is Edified by Moves Made in Game in Exhibition Which Is Broadcast.

The radio bridge audience gleaned some good tips on expert play from the fourteenth of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Games, broadcast from Station WRC, with Mrs. E. L. Bradbury, of Dallas, Tex.; Miss Marguerite Cohn, of Fort Smith, Ark.; Earl S. Cobey, of Rochester, N. Y., and Gratz M. Scott, of New York City as the exhibition players.

The hands were: Mr. Scott, Dealer, South: Spades, Q-10-4; Hearts, A-K-6; Diamonds, A-K-5-4; Clubs, K-J-2. Mr. Cobey, West: Spades, 9-6-5-3; Hearts, Q-10-9; Diamonds, Q-10-8-3; Clubs, 7-5. Mrs. Bradbury, North: Spades, K-7; Hearts, J-4; Diamonds, J-9-7-6; Clubs, Q-10-9-8-4. Miss Cohn, East: Spades, A-J-8-2; Hearts, 8-7-5-3-2; Diamonds, 2; Clubs, A-6-3.

The only bid was the opening declaration of one No Trump by Mr. Scott, Dealer, South, which all passed. Miss Cohn, East, would have liked to have made a lead-directing bid to keep her partner from opening Diamonds. With only a singleton in that suit, she appreciated that West was likely to be long in it and lead it, and that she would be unable to help establish it; but she had no suit in which a bid would have been justified.

So with South as Declarer at one No Trump, Mr. Cobey, West, made the original lead of the Trey of Diamonds, the fourth-best of the stronger of his two long suits. Mrs. Bradbury spread her hand for Dummy, and Mr. Scott, Declarer, was surprised to find that he had four cards in Dummy and four in his own hand of the leader's suit. He knew the lead was fourth-best, and subtracting three from eleven and finding the remainder to be eight, he realized that Miss Cohn, East, could have no Diamond higher than the Trey, becase he himself in his two hands had the entire eight that the lead had shown were not in the hand of the leader. By the same reasoning, Declarer could tell that the leader's remaining Diamonds were the Queen, 10 and 8.

Planning his campaign before making his first play, Declarer counted six sure tricks . . . one Spade, two Hearts and three Diamonds. If the adverse Ace of Clubs were part of a three-card suit, not more than two Clubs could be won unless Dummy's long Clubs were established and an entry made in that hand to cash them. The King of Spades was not an assured entry because East might have the Ace; so the Declarer determined to make up an entry in Dummy's Diamonds as he needed three Clubs for game.

Therefore, to the first trick Declarer played Dummy's 6 of Diamonds. Miss Cohn, East, played the Deuce, and Declarer, South, won with the Ace, making Dummy's Jack a sure entry.

To trick two Declarer led the King of Clubs; West played the 5; Dummy the 4; East the Trey. Miss Cohn, East, hoped that by holding up her Ace of Clubs until the third round she could keep Declarer from running Dummy's long Clubs. She knew that Dummy's King of Spades was not an entry, and hoped that her partner could prevent an entry in Diamonds.

Declarer continued Clubs, leading the Jack. West played the 7; Dummy the Queen from her sesquence, hoping to dislodge the Ace one round sooner by making East believe that the closed hand had no more Clubs. Miss Cohn, however, was not deceived by the subterfuge. She played the 6. Declarer then led the 10 of Clubs from Dummy; East played the Ace; closed hand the Deuce, and West discarded the Trey of Spades.

To trick five Miss Cohn, East, led the Trey of Hearts. Mr. Scott, Declarer, had his game won, whether he won or lost this trick; his best chance for an extra trick seemed to be to play small from South, hoping that East had the Queen of Hearts. So South played the 6 of Hearts; West won with the Queen; Dummy played the 4. West returned the suit, leading the 10 of Hearts. Dummy played the Jack; East the Deuce; South, Declarer, the King.

Declarer then led his 5 of Diamonds. He could mark every Diamond, and knew he must lose one unless he could catch West napping and induce him to play a small Diamond on this trick. In that case he might shut out an adverse Diamond. But Mr. Cobey could also place all the Diamonds, and knew his Queen of Diamonds would die unless he played it on this trick. Accordingly he did so; Dummy played the 7; and East was called upon to make a difficult discard. She knew that one more Heart lead would establish two Hearts in her hand, to which her Ace of Spades was her only entry. But she also knew that Declarer had the Ace of Hearts, and that if Hearts were led, Declarer would make five tricks ....the Heart, two Diamonds, and two Clubs....which with the four tricks he already had, would ensure his game. Miss Cohn saw that a Spade lead offered the only chance to save game; should her partner happen to have the Queen and another Spade, the lead of the Queen through Dummy's King would produce two tricks, which with the three East and West already had, would stop the game. Miss Cohn therefore asked for a Spade by discarding the 5 of Hearts.

To trick eight West, noting his partner's discard, and realizing it was possible that she had the Ace and Queen of Spades, led his best Spade, the 9. Dummy played the 7, and East, appreciating that South had the Queen, played her Ace. She knew her partner would have led the Queen if he had had it. Had East played her Jack, Declarer would have won with the Queen and then have discarded his two losing Spades on Dummy's Clubs. Declarer played the 4 of Spades, then placed his hand face up on the table claiming the remainder of the tricks, which adversaries conceded. Declarer scored 30 for tricks. There was no honor score, as Aces were easy.

Mr. Work had very little comment to make on the play of the hand except to commend Declarer's creating the sure entry in Dummy's Diamonds by overtaking the first trick, a play on which the winning of game hinged. Mr. Work also emphasized the soundness of Mrs. Bradbury's pass of her partner's original No Trump, which, as he said, called for no special comment except that players in many parts of the country of late have gathered the idea that an original bid of one No Trump should always be taken out by bidder's partner regardless of the strength or weakness of the hand; some who do not carry the take-out idea to that ridiculous extreme believe that it always should be made with a five-card suit regardless of the strength of such suit. Mr. Work pointed out that the No Trump declaration in Auction is bid to be played and should not be taken out unless there is a constructive reason for so doing, which, of course, Mrs. Bradbury did not have. She would have been foolish to warn Mr. Scott away from a No Trump by a bid of two Clubs, when there was no apparent chance of making game at Clubs and an excellent chance of doing so at No Trump.

At Contract South would open with two No Trumps on his count of 20 and four suits stopped; in fact, he was just 1 point short of the 21 count needed for an original three No Trumps. 17, with four suits stopped (counting Ace 4, King 3, Queen 2, Jack 1, two tens 1), warrants the original bid of two No Trumps. North would jump to three. Such a jump is justified by a count of 6, and North's hand totals 8 (a count of 1 is also allowed for a five-card suit headed by one of the top honors.) Some 5-count hands warrant a two-to-three jump. They are: An Ace with any other one count, or a King and Queen whether of the same or different suits. Three No Trumps would be the final bid, and the play would be the same as in Auction.

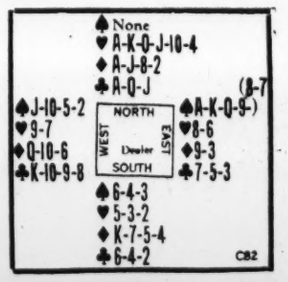
WORK ON BRIDGE

INTERESTING HANDS I HAVE MET.

Today's hand follows; it was played in a game of Contract and illustrates the possibility of utilizing seemingly worthless cards in the dummy.



THE BIDDING.

After two passes North bids four Hearts which held the contract. He had no excuse for bidding more than game in Hearts; even four-odd was not fully assured. South, having no excuse for jumping, passed.

At Auction Bridge North would obtain a Heart contract. He might get it by making a preempting bid of three, but if he started with one or two he might be forced as high as four.

THE PLAY.

In the play East led a Spade and North ruffed with an honor, it being perfectly safe for him to do so as he still could capture the adverse trumps even if they were all in one hand. Then North led two rounds of trumps and was fortunate in finding an even adverse division so that he exhausted all of the adverse trumps with these two leads.

Next North led the Eight of Diamonds, and South won with the King and returned a small Diamond. North's Jack finesse won and then the Ace dropped West's Queen. After that South was put in with the Seven of Diamonds and the first Club finesse was tried. Successful in that, Declarer put South in a second time with the Five of trumps for the second Club finesse and a grand slam.

It was a case in which uncovering two hidden entries in the South hand produced a trick otherwise unobtainable; had North ruffed with a low Heart, South's Five would not have been a winner, and at trick 4 if North had led the Deuce of Diamonds instead of the Eight, South would not have been able to win the fourth round of that suit with the Five.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest which ended recently are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest of all the contestants in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48 page booklet entitled, "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self addressed stamped return envelope, together with six cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48 page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 17.

A taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both capital and personal services are material income-producing factors also is given consideration in computing the tax on earned income to which the 25 per cent credit applies.

The revenue act provides in such cases that a "reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services" shall be considered as earned income. Such allowance is not to exceed 20 per cent of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. For example, a taxpayer received in 1929, from a business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, a net profit of $30,000. The 25 per cent credit is computed on 20 per cent of $30,000, or $6,000. The amount payable is the tax on $30,000, less 25 per cent of the tax on $6,000.

Within the range of the second class of earned income are many kinds of professions in which individuals are associated as partners. When the facts in each case indicate that the proportionate share to each partner of the net amount of fees from the professional partnership truly represents compensation for personal services actually rendered by him, such partnership share is to be classified as earned income in the individual return. If such share does not represent compensation for services rendered, but instead represents a return on capital invested by him in the profession, or gain derived through the employment of assistants who do the actual work, it is not to be classified as earned income to the taxpayer.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, Feb. 18.

HOW can you make a long-sleeved evening gown look like an evening gown? Because long sleeved evening gowns have possibilities—delightful possibilities, for women with not especially attractive arms. "Not especially attractive arms" would simply mean either very thin arms or very red arms—or an unproportionately heavy upper arm, or badly freckled arms.

The problem is not as difficult as it sounds. A long-sleeved evening gown can not possibly be mistaken for anything other than a gown by its decolletage, which can be of a nature that precludes the possibility of its being worn in the daytime, even for the most elaborate afternoon dress.

One thing you must beware, however, and that is having the sleeves of your evening gown too elaborate and decorative as to line, an extravagance that is permitted only to negligees and teagowns. But they may, however, and with a great deal of charm, be intricately embroidered, and especially may they be very openworked.

If sleeveless evening gowns are not your forte, try wearing one with sleeves especially to be flattering to your particular kind of arms.

O-o-o-o-o, it was so lovely, honestly. I didn't think I could possibly "live without it"—so I just didn't try—but that's another story! The point of this story is that the dress is dark pink marocain with incrustations of brown—oh, harder to describe than for you to just look at. And the coat ('member I showed it to you Monday without the capelet?) is brown marocain trimmed with a flat brown fur. And the little cape-collar, in the smart way capes have this season, didn't do a thing but just naturally tie on or be left off! Wouldn't you sort of suspect it was a Martial et Armand idea? And that's just what it was.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 9:40 to 10:50 p. m.

The astrological signs are rather veiled in their indications for this date and prophecies are uncertain. If you go on the principle that "One today is worth two tomorrows," it can not become a blank day in the history of your life.

The child born on this February 19 will need to be praised and encouraged, as it will be lacking in self-reliance. It will become easily discouraged when things go wrong, and it should not be allowed to give up. It will have a lovable nature, and it will quickly respond to kindly guidance.

You have a very positive, very peculiar and a very conflicting nature. A man born on a February 19 is a man's man—you understand, and get along far better with those of your own sex than with those whom you consider the weaker sex.

Both men and women are highly strung and restless and you become easily bored by your surroundings or associates. A sameness in anything irritates you—you demand surprises and changes and adventure. You will probably make a very good father or mother, but a poor husband or wife.

Gifted with a keen intellect, you do not suffer fools gladly, and you have very little patience with those who can not match your own wit. You both think and act quickly yourself, and you want others to keep up with your pace. A rather turbulent, but interesting life and career is predicted for you.

You'll know why millions prefer Kotex

once you've learned its lasting comfort

Kotex stays soft, stays comfortable, though worn for hours . . . one important reason for its amazing popularity

ONLY a remarkably comfortable pad could win and keep so many million users!

Most any pad is fairly comfortable when first adjusted. But how quickly mere surface softness packs into chafing hardness! How quickly ill-designed pads will lump and twist and bulge.

Kotex can't pack, because it's made of a remarkable absorbent that absorbs away from the surface . . . leaving the surface always soft and delicate.

Kotex can't bulge and twist, because it's scientifically designed. The width is right. The length is right. The corners are rounded and tapered so the pad won't slip out of place, or show awkward lines.

Preferred by hospitals

Most women consider they need no further proof of Kotex superiority than this:

The Kotex absorbent (Cellucotton absorbent wadding) is used by 85% of the best hospitals in America. Cellucotton is not cotton—but a cellulose product which performs the same sanitary function with 5 times the absorbency of the finest cotton.

SAFE . . . SECURE

2—Kotex is soft . . . not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
3—Disposable, instantly, completely.

"The ringworms first began with little red pimples on my husband's abdomen and thighs. They itched terribly when he perspired, and used to burn. He used to scratch the eruptions until they were so sore that he had to protect them with gauze so that his clothing would not rub them. He also had eczema for three months.

NATS' HOLDOUTS FACE FINES FOR DELAY IN SIGNING

Bobby Jones In Savannah Open Play

Amateur King Returns to Competition in Tourney.

Expects to Be Beaten by Star Pros Also Entered.

ATLANTA, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, national open champion, left here tonight for Savannah, Ga., where Thursday he will sound the first gun in his extensive 1930 campaign, in the three-day 72-hole open tournament.

The open king will be playing in his first tournament since the national amateur championship in California last September, when he was eliminated by Johnny Goodman, a little-known golfer from Omaha.

Jones has mapped out a strenuous campaign for this year. His tentative plans include the Walker Cup matches as captain of the American Team, the British open and amateur tournaments and the national open and amateur events. The British amateur title is the only major crown of golfdom that Atlanta's Iron Duke has never worn.

Has Played Little Since Amateur.

The Atlanta lawyer-golfer will reach Savannah early tomorrow morning and probably will take a practice swing around the par 74 country club course over which the $3,000 event will be played.

Bobby has played little golf since returning to Atlanta after the amateur championship event. His law practice has required all of his time. During the past two weeks, however, he has played his home course, the Eastlake Country Club, several times, and last Saturday shot a round of 63, equaling his own low record for the par 72 course.

"The tournament ought to attract some of the best professionals playing the winter loop," Jones said in announcing his intention to enter. "I'd love to see Horton Smith and Denny Shute play, and compete with them and with Al Espinosa.

Expects to Be Beaten.

"Of course, I wouldn't figure on giving them much of a battle at this time of the year. They probably will give me a tidy licking. The way the pros used to do down in Florida when I was in better playing condition than I am now. But that's O. K. I love to play with the pros and it tickles me when I can beat them, and when they beat me, well, that's O. K. too, and no feelings hurt."

Gene Sarazen, winner of the $10,000 first prize in the Agua Caliente Open; Johnny Farrell, who copped the Pensacola Open last week; Bill Mehlhorn, Shiby Cruickshank, Al Espinosa, Herman Barron, Horton Smith, Harry Cooper and Ed Dudley head the list of pros who will participate with Jones in the Savannah event.

S. France Net Title To Tilden and Coen

Burroughs' Feature Bout Won by Quigley

A vote of Referee Ray Brown was necessary to give Jack Quigley, of the City Club, a decision over Jim McGuire, former Catholic University athlete, in their extra-round feature fight last night of the Burroughs Athletic Club's exhibition bouts at St. Joseph's Hall. At the end of the fourth round one judge voted the decision to Quigley, and the other gave McGuire the nod before Bowen cast his vote.

Altogether seven douts were staged with the members of the City Club and the Knights of Columbus ring teams exhibiting their wares to the club members.

Barber (K. of C.) defeated Casey (K. of C.), 145-pound class, decision; Pierce (City Club) and Lacey (City Club), 118-pound class, draw; Ball (City Club) defeated Raleigh (K. of C.), 135-pound class, decision; Irving (City Club) and Wolfgraham (City Club), draw; Miller (City Club) defeated Sullivan (K. of C.), 145-pound class, decision; Getchel (K. of C.) and McLean (K. of C.), draw; Quigley (City Club) defeated McGuire, extra-round decision.

Maryland Wins 21-19 Game Over Southern Champions

Special to The Washington Post.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 18.—Maryland and North Carolina State played their second hard-fought basket ball game of the season here tonight, with Maryland winning, 21 to 19, the same margin by which they had been turned back in the previous game.

State's red terrors, the Southern Conference champions, got off to a flying start and at half time of the first period had piled up an 8-point lead, but four goals in quick succession by Chalmers and Berger, coupled with a pair by Radice, put Maryland in the running.

State rallied to lead, 12 to 11, at half time. Again the Terrors started off well in the second half, a foul and field goal giving them a 4-point lead in the first few minutes of play. Heagy and Chalmers eased by State's defense for short shots to knot the count. Radice then looped a neat field goal. Haar and Johnson accounted for four points to again put State in the lead, but Ronkin evened the count again and two foul shots by Chalmers made the count 21 to 19.

The gun barked with a long toss by Brown in midair. The ball rolled around the rim and fell outside to smother State's hopes.

Georgetown-Navy Battle Tops Today's College Card

Catholic vs. Hopkins, G. W. Meets Salem on Local Courts.

FOUR Capital college quintets will swing into action this afternoon or tonight. Two games will be played here and two others on foreign floors.

In the local games, George Washington will meet Salem (W Va.) College in the H street gymnasium, and Catholic University will entertain Johns Hopkins at Brookland. Both will commence at 8:30 o'clock, following preliminary contests.

On the courts of their foes, Georgetown will battle Navy this afternoon and Maryland will encounter North Carolina University tonight at Chapel Hill.

George Washington hopes to register its eighth victory at Salem's expense, and Catholic, in spite of thirteen straight setbacks, has hopes of beating Hopkins.

G. U. Seeks Third Victory in Row Over Navy.

Georgtown aims to win its third successive victory over Navy in as many years. The Hilltop team, however, is weakened at present through the loss of Don Duton, stellar forward.

Navy, it is reported, is aching for revenge, and the Hoyas doubtless will find a real job on their hands. The Tars are especially tough foes on their own court. They hold distinct advantages in weight and height and in the matter of numbers. Their squad outnumbers Georgetown's by nearly 3 to 1.

Maryland will be out to defeat North Carolina University for the second time this season. In an earlier game at College Park, the Terrapin Five triumphed, 34 to 26.

Tomorrow night Maryland will engage the powerful Duke Quintet at Durham in the final game of its North Carolina invasion. Duke handed the local team its first defeat of the season by a score of 28 to 27.

American U. to Enter Targee in C. U. Games

Orville Targee, speedy football and basket ball star of American University, will be entered in the open 50-yard dash of the Catholic University indoor meet on March 12, Coach Walter Young, of American, stated last night.

Targee, one of the most accomplished athletes who has worn the Orange in four years, was a sensation in Southern Ohio scholastic track circles last year. He was undefeated in about twelve races at distances ranging from 100 to 440 yards and won the century and furlong championships of his section. The 50-yard distance is a little too short for his best performance.

Subsequent to an announcement that American would place a track team in intercollegiate competition this spring, Coach Young said he had found that lack of training facilities and poor prospects from the standpoint of material made it necessary to change plans. Instead of a full team, Young said he would endeavor to develop three or four individuals, including Targee, for competition in as many meets as it was found convenient to enter them.

WOLVERINES PLAY TWO.

Jackie Berg Knocks Out Callahan in 10 Rounds

London, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Jackie (Kid) Berg, Breat Britain's sensational lightweight, scored a technical knockout tonight over Mushy Callahan, of Chicago, in the tenth round of a fifteen-round engagement billed as a "junior welterweight" title contest. Callahan's seconds threw in the towel to save the American further punishment.

British critics, watching Berg for the first time since the White Chapel youngster's triumphant campaign in American rings, enthused over Berg's showing. Berg won the right to challenge Sammy Mandell for the lightweight championship by defeating Tony Canzoneri in his final appearance in New York.

Wanley and Mealy battled gamely to carry the Saints from the depths in the second half after the Woltzmen had built a 19 to 6 lead before intermission. McCartee, Buscher and Lichleiter were the principal scorers for the victors.

Fight Camps In Full Blast At Miami

Carey Seeks Sharkey and Scott in Brisk Workouts.

Phil Uses Fists Freely on 5 Mates Despite Sore Finger.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The five-ring circus of training preparations for the second battle of the Palms, featuring Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott, was in full blast today for the first time this week. Stimulated by the arrival of "Big Bill" Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden, who may not see the fights on February 27 because of the necessity of making a trip to South America, the gladiators put on a lively succession of workouts at the widely scattered camps.

Because of the overnight flurry about a slight injury to Scott's right hand, or, rather, the aggravation of an old bit of damage, the lanky Britisher's workout was scrutinized closely by the assembled correspondents. Phil clearly avoided taking any risks with either hand, but he punched the light bag and then used both fists freely on five sparring partners in a five-round workout. Later he said there was only a slight trace of soreness in the little finger.

Sharkey Close To Best Form

Sharkey, to all outward appearances, close to the best, if not actually the best form of his career, boxed four rounds with Johnny Grosso and Pierre Charles at Miami Beach, besides six additional rounds of calisthenics. The Boston sailor was content to let Scott put on the main show of the day.

To make it easier for the critics and camp followers, Carey announced today after a conference with Frank J. Bruen, the Garden's general manager, that the training activities would be concentrated, beginning tomorrow, in Miami and Miami Beach. The only exception to the rallying call is Tommy Loughran, who will continue to mingle in Palm Beach society. The chief changes involve the transfer of the semifinalists, Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, to more accesible locations. Campolo will train at a Miami Beach casino, and Risko will share Scott's quarters on the main boulevard of Miami. Campolo's workout today was featured by sparring against three men in a single round.

Carey Impressed By Scott.

Carey, after inspecting the situation in company with George F. Getz, of the Illinois Boxing Commission, surprised his hearers by expressing some liking for the chances of Scott in the main bout.

"I don't predict Scott will win," said the Garden executive and railroad builder, "but I think the Englishman has a good chance to do so if the fight goes six or seven rounds."

Carey disclosed that the retired champion, Gene Tunney, now in Florida recuperating from a recent operation, will attend the fight.

Berkeley, Calif., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Football carried fourteen other major and minor sports at the University of California to a successful financial season for the fall of 1929, a report released by Graduate Manager W. W. Monahan revealed today.

The gridiron sport netted the university $411,079.25 for the season, and when the losses of the other fourteen sports were deducted, left a remainder of $318,087.02.

Hartley to Continue Fight For Amateur Boxing Here

IN spite of the adverse recommendation of the District Commissioners, Representative Fred A. Hartley, sponsor of the bill to legalize amateur boxing in the District, last night affirmed his intention to continue the fight for its enactment.

In his statement he declared that the Commissioners' action would not deter him in his fight for the proposal. Practically the only objection raised by the Commissioners, he said, is that there is but little public sentiment in favor of the bill.

Representative Hartley doubts that this statement would have been made had the Commissioners been acquainted with the number of petitions he has received urging him to strive for the bill.

"Since its introduction," he said, "I have received indorsements from amateur athletic organizations from all parts of the District as well as from individual lovers of sports. All in spite of the fact that no attempt has been made to crystallize any movement in this direction."

After enumerating the benefits of amateur boxing, Representative Hartley pointed out that Washington youths can not enjoy exhibitions unless they belong to some club or college.

"Such organizations," he said, "have a difficult problem in sponsoring these exhibitions, and I believe they should be entitled by law to make them self-sustaining."

Under the Hartley bill an amateur boxing commission would be created to supervise boxing bouts. It would also permit an admission charge at the exhibitions.

On a similar bill introduced last year the Commissioners reported adversely. But notwithstanding their recommendation, the bill passed the District committees, and the Senate and failed by 1 vote to gain unanimous consent for a place on the House calendar.

Scores 13 Points as Salem Five Is Beaten, 32 to 26.

THE Salem Tigers from West Virginia found the American University Quintet in poor form last night, but the local team, through some timely shooting by its dependable captain, "Reds" Olsen, managed to capture the decision, 32 to 26. It was Salem's first game in Washington in three years. George Washington, the team it last met here, will be played tonight.

Olsen whipped the cords for six field goals and one foul goal which earned him individual scoring honors. Three of his fielders came successively in the late stages of the first half, while his sixth and final dropped in to pull American out of a dangerous situation in the closing moments of the second session.

Salem showed little to impress lovers of fine basket ball but had plenty of fighting spirit. Refusing to slacken its pace when Olsen would boost American's total, the Tiger Five finally drew close with about 4 minutes remaining.

Visitors Close to Tie Near End.

Two goals by Dodds, center, and another by Bowers, forward, placed the visitors within four points of a tie.

But Olsen wasn't yet through for the night. He snatched the ball on a tip-off just before the final whistle and dribbled more than half the length of the floor to score.

American led at intermission by 18 to 13.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 18.—Making their appearance on their home floor tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for the first time in three weeks, the Episcopal High School quintet will play the Western High School from Washington. Coach Fleming, realizing that he is playing one of Washington's best high school teams, will start his strongest line-up. His starting line-up will be, McDonald and Nalle, forwards; Hancock, center and Train and Orrick guards.

Coach Reynolds will take his entire Alexandria High squad to Washington tomorrow afternoon for a return game with the Central High School basketers. After winning the third district with a clean slate, Coach Reynolds is more than pleased with the showing up of his team. This is the fourth consecutive year that the local high school has won the third district title and on each previous occasion it has lost in the semifinals for the State championship.

Much interest is being shown at the Alexandria High School about the special rifle match that is to be held on March 15. Medals have been offered to the first three cadets.

The Cathedral Athletic Club, one of the oldest sandlot baseball teams in America, will again place a ball team on the field for the coming season. Jimmy Quayle and Roland Jones, two former players with the team, have been signed to manage the club.

The Knight Store Five will play its fourth game in the Alexandria Independent Basket Ball League tomorrow night when it tackles the fast Whitestone Five.

Skinker Eagles Beaten By French A. C., 21-20

In one of the major basket ball upsets of the current season, the French Athletic Club Five last night defeated Skinker Bros. Eagles, 21 to 20, in a close, hard fought battle on the Silver Spring Armory floor. The victors gained first place in the Independent Pro League by virtue of the decision. Neither team had been defeated in league play when they met last night.

Catholic Swimmers Trounced by Virginia

Capt. Brooke Maury starred for the visitors, negotiating the 100-yard dash in 58 4-5 seconds to lower the pool record. He equaled the pool record in the 150-yard back stroke, finishing the length of the pool ahead of McNamara, of Catholic University.

The Cavaliers got off to a good start by annexing the relay, while first place in fancy diving went to Jack Fishburne, featherweight boxer. Mullin was the best performer for the Brooklanders, getting second place in the 50-yard dash and 440-yard swim. In the latter event he led Chenery until the last two laps.

JOB "TOUGH," SHAWKEY ADMITS

Hard Work Keynote in Overhauling Former Champions.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Bob Shawkey takes up the man-sized job of managing the New York Yankees this year with the full knowledge that he "is in a tough spot" but optimistic nevertheless that the reconstruction process of 1930 will find the club again in the thick of the pennant hunt.

"When I say it's a tough spot, I mean so far as the public attitude is concerned," remarked Shawkey, sun-tanned and looking fit enough to go into the box again himself, as he tilted back his chair at the Miami Country Club. He admitted to just having "broken 90."

"The fans," he went on, "love a winner and are quick to find fault when the old machine skids a bit, but the players, I know, will go along with me in the job of rebuilding the club. We were up there a long time, you know, and it's no cinch to overhaul a baseball outfit.

Lot of Hard Work Is Plan.

"What are my plans? Well, we will give the boys a lot of hard work, starting with the first bunch, reporting this Sunday at St. Petersburg. I'm going to make the pitchers do a lot of running. It's just as important that their legs be in good condition as their arms. When they can't get over on the base lines for bunts or when they tire on their feet, a good arm won't save them.

"We won't have any special rules or regulations. I don't think it pays to put down a hard and fast line and make the players stick to it. If they want to play golf in the morning, it will be okay, so long as they do not bring the game into the clubhouse. If a player isn't smart enough to know it's his business to stay in condition, we will handle him as seems necessary. In other words, common sense is the thing, and I have been in baseball too long to try any fancy stunts on a lot of seasoned, experienced men."

It isn't strange that an old pitcher and a good one, such as Shawkey, believes pitching is at least half the game and probably 60 per cent in the long run, so far as results are concerned.

"All Depends on Pitchers."

"It all depends on how our pitchers go," he said in talking about the pennant prospects. "Sherid, our young southpaw, ought to be a star this year. I look for Hoyt and Pipgras to be back in top form. Pennock, if he recovers from the neuritis in his arm, will help. If not, he probably is through for good. It all depends on how his arm responds to actual work.

"We will be stronger behind the bat with Dickey improved and Hargrave to share the backstopping, besides handling the young pitchers.

"Aside from the pitching, our main problem will be the infield. I will work out Reese and Lary at second and short, to see if they get together in the way that made them sensations a few years ago with Oakland. If they fit, Lazzeri may go over to third. On the other hand, Lazzeri and Koenig seem the logical men for their old jobs around the middle bag, leaving third base to be filled, possibly by Chapman."

COLONIAL NINE MEETS.

Colonial A. C. Unlimited Baseball Team will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at 910 Kennedy street northwest. All former players and new candidates are asked to be present.

Baseball Code Strict With Holdouts

Must Report Within 3 Days or Be Subject to $100 Fine.

Jones, Marberry and Tate Near Deadline for Signing.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE time is fast approaching when those members of the Nationals who have failed to sign 1930 contracts must do so—or else. Baseball rules state that any player, after having been given a week's notice, who fails to report within three days of the date ordered, is subject to a fine of $100, "and any player not reporting as above ordered must get into condition at his own expense, and his salary will not commence until he is in condition to the satisfaction of the club manager to participate in championship games."

As the Washington club has ordered its pitchers and catchers, with the exception of Garland Braxton, who gets in shape quickly and has been made a member of the second squad, to be ready for training at Biloxi on February 27, this means that, among others, Pitchers "Sad Sam" Jones and Fred Marberry and Catchers Bennie Tate and Roy Spencer will have to make known their intentions very shortly or be classed as holdouts.

Jones has been a hard man for President Griffith to get along with on the salary question ever since he joined the club. He pitched good ball here in 1928, but, despite the fact that he was just an ordinary flinger last season, he feels that he is entitled to a star's salary. True "the Sad One" is young for his age, but, even so, his age is old for baseball and he is a gamble from a club owner's viewpoint.

Transportation Money Sent Jones.

Indications are that either Griffith is satisfied that he and Jones can reach an agreement in a face-to-face debate or that the Nat owner wants to comply with all baseball rules so that he can use the spurs on Jones for Assistant Secretary Billy Smith, now in charge here, has been ordered to send the veteran pitcher his transportation money from his home in Woodsfield, Ohio, to the Biloxi training quarters.

This action also has been ordered in the case of Catcher Bennie Tate. Just what his status is is not known, as the Washington club has not mentioned the little catcher in any of its dispatches to the press.

In the cases of Pitcher Fred Marberry and Catcher Roy Spencer, no transportation has been ordered for them, indicating that Griffith may be inclined to wait a little longer for them to see things his way.

Not even enough players to make up a hand of bridge will leave Washington next Tuesday as part of the first group of Nationals to report at Biloxi. Catcher Muddy Ruel has sent word that he will come from his home at St. Louis to join the party here, while Pitcher Irving Hadley, who has been wintering in Florida, will be on hand. These will be the only players whom Manager Walter Johnson will chaperon, as all of the others will journey to Mississippi direct from their homes.

Lloyd Brown Already At Biloxi.

Word was received from President Griffith yesterday to the effect that Pitcher Lloyd Brown already has arrived at Biloxi and started training by easy stages.

Trainer Mike Martin, accompanied by Fred Harveycutter, a rabid Washington fan, is booked to leave here Saturday morning. He wants to be on hand a little early so as to have things ready when the first squad arrives.

Ossie Bluege leaves Friday for High Point to visit some relatives before reporting. He plans to catch the same train which Capt. Joe Judge will take from here on February 28.

Butch Niemic Plans To Play Pro Baseball

Bellaire, Ohio, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—John ("Butch") Niemic, Notre Dame football half back of two years ago, plans to play baseball in the American Association next season, he indicated today after a telephone conversation with officials in Indianapolis.

Niemic would not say what team he hopes to join. He has just signed a contract as assistant football coach at Rice Institute, Houston, Tex., but announced he would not report until after the baseball season ends.

Bucs, Minus Grimes, Off for Coast Camp

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—The advanced group of the Pittsburgh National League Club, headed by Manager Jewel Ens and Vice President Sam Dreyfus, entrained tonight on a four-day journey to the Pirate training camp at Paso Robles, Calif. Two men who had been expected to make the trip were missing.

One was Burleigh Grimes, ace of the Pirate pitching staff, who is holding out for a two-year contract. The other was Floyd Young, 21-year-old infielder and outfielder of Jamestown, N. Y., who today notified club officials that he had been stricken with appendicitis. Young played last season with Greensboro of the Piedmont League.

Max Carey, who recently joined the club, likely will fill Young's place on the "Yannigan" team in practice games. The group that left tonight, consisting mainly of pitchers and catchers, will be added to at Chicago, Kansas City, and Los Angeles. The first workout at Paso Robles is scheduled for next Sunday.

FIREMEN WIN TWO.

The Takoma Firemen took both games of a double bill last night in the Takoma Fire Department gym, downing the Royal Arcanums, 38 to 15, and the Beta Chi Five, 33 to 19.

DERBY ENTRY LIST, SMALLER, TO REVEAL SURPRISES

Whitney Aces Now Out of Classic

Stable Has Nominated Five Others, However, for Stake.

Odds Shortened on Gallant Fox, Flying Heels, Spinach.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Several surprises are in store for members of the Hot Stove League of the American turf when the names of 150, or thereabout, thoroughbreds are released Saturday as the official entry list for the Fifty-sixth Kentucky Derby, to be run May 17 over Churchill Downs.

Missing from the imposing array of 3-year-olds will be the names of Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone and Boojum, leading juveniles of 1929, despite the fact that the flashy pair has come through the winter training period perfectly sound, Mr. Whitney, through his trainer, Tom Healy, today said he had decided to withhold his aces for the more profitable stakes to be run later in the season.

The master of Brookdale Farm never has favored conditioning the best of his large stable for the early season stakes, preferring to bring them along slowly in time for the Belmont Stakes, at Belmont Park, in June.

Unlikely to Race in Preakness.

Whichone, which won in in excess of $135,000 last year and Boojum, however, have been nominated for the Preakness at Pimlico, but since both have been withheld from the Derby's nominations it is doubtful if Whitney and Healy will choose to start either of the stars in the early-season Maryland feature.

The Eton blue and brown topped silks, however, will not be without a standard bearer in the historic run over Churchill Downs. Whitney has named five for the $50,000 stake—Crazy Coot, Niato, Hat Broom, Chimney Sweep and Gigalo, a nonstarter as a 2-year-old.

With Whichone definitely out, the winter book odds are expected to shortin on the Belair Stud's Gallant Fox, as well as William Zeigler's Spinach, and Goneaway. W. R. Coe's Caruso, George Widener's Hi-Jack, Gifford F. Cochrane's Flying Heels, W. J. Salmon's Snowflake and Johnson N. Camden's Dedicate. Whichone had been made the winter book favorite at 4 to 1, while Boojum was choice, with Gallant Fox at odds of 10 to 1. The majority of the bookmakers have been quoting 20 to 1 on the other leading candidates.

Official Entry List Smaller.

The grapevine telegraph has it that the official entry list when released Saturday, will be smaller than last year, when 159 were nominated for the race won by Clyde Van Dusen. Since 1923 the entries have fluctuated around 150, but reached a high new mark in 1928, when 196 thoroughbreds were named. The year 1922 saw the smallest number of nominations in recent years, only 92 being listed, while only 9 chose to face the barrier against the great Morvich.

The year Reigh Count splashed his way to victory, the entries were not only the largest in history, but the greatest number of starters, 22, faced the flag. Zev's year (1923), 21 were at the post while there were 20 under colors in 1925 when Flying Ebony, grouped in the mutuel field with 8 others, showed the way home.

A.A.U. CROWN NOW GOAL OF DIXIE PIGS

Waldrop Quintet Has Impressive Record This Season.

HUGH WALDROP makes it a policy to produce winners. His Dixie Pig Unlimited Team which will compete for the District A. A. U. championship of that class in the big tournament to be held under the auspices of The Washington Post figures to be a strong contender.

In his brief career as a sports team promoter, Waldrop won the Prince Georges County Basket Ball League championship last year and promises to take second honors this season, captured the Prince Georges County Bowling League title last year and is leading a leading contender again this season; came within one game of bagging the Capital City unlimited baseball championship last summer, and this season brought his team in third in the Community Center League race.

Team Obtains New Stars.

The team which will carry the barbecue place colors in the District championships will not be the same which has campaigned through most of the season. Sammy Hook, stellar guard, has been lost, but Jeff Dix, late of Company F; Rich Reeley, erstwhile Company F and Berwyn A. C. star; John Sherman, who has been starring with Ben Franklin U., and Charley Zimmerli, former St. Martin's floorman, have been added to the squad, which already included Bob Lyles, Blackie Adair, Del Zahn, Albert Nicholson, Denton Smith and Edward Radtke.

Adair and Radtke were big factors in the success of the Dixie Pig diamond aggregation last summer. Practically every member of the tournament team has had high school or college experience. Lyles, Zahn and Smith are former Tech High athletes. Dix played while a student at Maryland. Nicholson, the big center, performed at Georgia Tech.

Impressive Record Boasted.

Waldrop's court five has had an impressive record this season, splitting even in two games with the French Athletic Club, Company F and Potomac Boat Club Teams. Only the Brentwood Hawks, Woltz Photographers and Mount Vernon hold an edge on the Barbecue crew. Among the other victims of the team are the Stewart Bros., Warrenton, Walters Whirlwind, Petworth Met, Western Electric, Berwyn and other strong quintets.

The rejuvenated Dixie Pig squad will get its first test Sunday when it opposes the team which will represent Company F in the District championships on the Hyattsville Armory floor. The Dixie Pig Five will engage in a double-header, clashing with Berwyn in a Prince Georges County League fray before meeting the big Company F passers.

G. W. YEARLINGS ROUT MARYLAND CUB FIVE, 31-18

Zahn Injured As Result of Collision

Colonial Cubs Lead All the Way; Wells, Carlin Star.

EVEN with two of their best performers forced to watch the game from the sidelines, those George Washington Freshmen had little difficulty in adding another victim to their growing list last night when they handily defeated the Maryland Yearlings Five, 31 to 18, in the H Street Gymnasium. Forest Burgess and Jack Connor, two aces of the Colonial Cubs, were barred from competing against the Old Line youngsters through enforcement of the transfer rule under which the Maryland Frosh perform.

All was not well for the winners, however, as Arthur Zahn, crack guard, was laid low at the start of the second half when he dashed into an iron portion of the bleachers and suffered a long gash on his right leg.

Zahn, a former star at Eastern High School, was removed to the Emergency hospital where ten stitches were necessitated with the announcement that he will probably be out of the line-up for a week or ten days.

Buff and Blue Cubs Lead, 10-4 at Half.

Coasting through their opponents with ease, the Buff and Blue Five established a 10-4 margin by the end of the first half, limiting the Marylanders to just one field goal in the first twenty minutes of play, that made by Melvin. Although held more evenly in the second half the home team maintained its advantage.

Landon Easy Victim Of Friends Five, 22-11

Friends courtmen had little trouble in disposing of the Landon Five, 22 to 11, yesterday in the Epiphany Gymnasium. Legg, with five field goals, was the leading scorer for the winners.

The game was slow throughout, although Friends got off to a good lead enabling it to boast of a 15-4 margin at half time. Only four field goals could be made by the losers.

Emerson Five Downs Swavely School, 47-33

Rallying in the second half after being submerged early in the contest, the Emerson Institute Five yesterday defeated the Swavely School Team, 47 to 33, on the latter team's home floor.

The Swavely passers puzzled their guests at the start and were in front, 12 to 3, at the close of the first quarter, and held a 14-to-13 advantage at half time. With Forney and Cabell doing most of the point scoring, the Emerson cagers completely outplayed their foes for the remainder of the distance and won with ease.

SAINTS BOW, 24 TO 15, TO CENTRAL

Free Tosses Help D.C. Five Defeat Saint John's Jayvees.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 18.—Central High School cagers defeated the St. John's College Javees in a closely contested game tonight, 24 to 15. Seventeen free flips aided the visitors, who cashed in on 10.

Play was slow at the start and at the end of the first quarter the score was deadlocked at 5 to 5. However, Central soon found itself, and, while St. John's was unable to score in the period, the Washingtonians rolled up a half-time margin of 12 to 5.

Bill Ziegler, St. John's pivot man and star, collided with temporary bleachers near the close of the first period and was knocked unconscious. He was unable to return to action.

Johnnies Rally But Then Drop Back.

In the second period play was speedier. St. John's pulled up to 12 to 16, but, at the end of the quarter, Central maintained its 7-point edge of the first half, the tally being 19 to 12. The final period was about even. Moore for St. John's and Cross and Brandt did the best work for Central.

DUKE PLAYS GENERALS TONIGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 18.—Duke's Blue Devil cagers, North Carolina Big Five champions for 1930, are very anxious to defeat the Washington and Lee Generals in the game, at Lexington, Va., tomorrow night.

The Generals ruined a clean slate that Duke had started. Now Duke has a chance to do the same. The Generals have a perfect record in the conference and have only been defeated once this year, that by West Virginia. Duke has been defeated once this year and Washington and Lee did it.

In order to beat Washington and Lee, Duke is perfectly aware of the fact that it must stop Leigh Williams, the General center. He made the going rough for Duke in the initial match and lowered the percentage of Joe Croson, Duke center.

Croson Grooms for Job of Stopping Williams.

Coach Eddie Cameron is getting Croson ready to stop Williams Wednesday night. Stopping Williams, Coach Cameron says, will be enough for Croson to do and the actual scoring result of the game will depend on the rest of the team.

In the first meeting of the two teams, Croson had little difficulty in getting the tip-off at center, but the Duke players were slow coming in and Washington and Lee had the edge there. That was ironed out before Duke played another game.

PRICES VARY LITTLE IN STOCK TURNOVER

RALLY IN COMMODITIES

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—A better tone in the commodity markets, further gains in steel mill operations and somewhat more plentiful call money encouraged increasingly violent bullish activity in today's stock market, but a wave of profit taking in the last half hour of trading wiped out about half of the day's extreme gains. There was marked expansion in the volume of trading, the day's sales aggregating 3,795,310 shares, approximately 500,000 above yesterday's turnover.

Although the market has continued a gradual but irregular advance, for several days—moving alternately two steps forward and one backward—and more than a score of leading shares have reached new high levels for the recovery, speculative sentiment remains rather uncertain regarding the near term outlook, and several commission houses continue to advocate profit taking. Pool operations are said to be increasing, but while the public participation in the market appears to be growing, the growth is altogether too slow to please professional operators for the advance.

The steady gain in steel mill production is one of the most encouraging sidelights on the industrial situation. U. S. Steel is now operating at about 85 per cent of capacity, and the industry generally at 81, a gain of 2 per cent over last week. The acute unsettlement in the grain and cotton markets, however, has caused some misgivings, and some of the more cautious observers feel that the extent of the business recovery will not be definitely measurable for several weeks. An unsettling development late in the day was reduction of Calumet and Arizona's quarterly dividend from the $2.50 paid for three quarters to $1.50. The stock broke about 5 points to a new low for the year, and Red Metal shares generally sagged.

Call Money at 4½ Per Cent.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and held at the loan post at that level all day, but funds were offered in the outside market at 4. The recent firmness appears to have been primarily attributable to mid-month requirements.

American Telephone, the floating supply of which has been consistantly diminished of late by investment buying, was seized upon by bulls as a leader and bid up to a new peak for the movement at 238¾. It closed at 236, up 3¾, net. U. S. Steel was bid up more than 2 points to 189½, fractionally above its previous high for the movement, but it closed at 187½.

Radio shares were taken in hand on the theory that surplus stocks of sets have been largely disposed of and the sales outlook has been improved. Radio Corporation was bid up 2 points to 45¾, its best level so far this year. Westinghouse Manufacturing was again a favorite, rising about 6 points to a new 1930 high, and closing but 2 points from the top. Gulf States Steel rose more than 3 points to the best level this year in response to reports that both American Rolling Mill and Republic Steel are seeking to acquire it.

Eastman Kodak Loses Slightly.

Eastman Kodak, which rose 11 points yesterday, slipped back 2 points in realizing. Shares losing a point or two included American Machine & Foundry, Electric Auto Lite, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, Montgomery Ward, New York Central and Sears Roebuck.

Leading commodity markets broke further in the early trading, but soon rallied. Wheat futures closed nearly 1 cent higher in sympathy with a sharp rally at Winnipeg and reports of crop damage in Kansas. Corn rallied in sympathy. Cotton closed steady.

Foreign exchanges generally continued to sag, with sterling, francs and marks reaching new lows for the movement. Sterling cables touched $4.85 15-16. With the steady decline in the franc, a return movement of gold from Paris becomes a possibility. The decline appears to be largely the result of the low Bank of France discount rate, which is 3 per cent.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb 18 (A.P.).—A renewal of yesterday's selling movement was reflected by early declines in the cotton market today, but the losses were recovered, with May contracts selling up from 15.57 to 15.81 and closing at 15.78, compared with 15.79 at the close of the previous day. Offerings were comparatively light after the early selling had been absorbed and the market responded to trade buying and covering. The final tone was very steady, with prices net 2 points higher to 2 points lower.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 15 to 19 points under a continuation of the selling which had been in evidence during the previous day, and which seemed to find additional encouragement in the easier showing of Liverpool and Bombay. There was some trade buying and covering, but it was readily supplied with active months soon showing net losses of 20 to 24 points. This carried the price of March contracts off to 15.32 and October to 15.93, making declines of about 60 points, or $3 per bale, from the high prices reached on the advance of last week. Offerings then tapered off sufficiently to suggest that the scattering long interest had been pretty well liquidated, and the market turned steadier.

Comparative buying increased on setbacks, and covering became more active in the last hour. March sold up to 15.54 and October to 16.18, making net advances of 1 to 3 points on the active months. Closing quotations were a point or two off from the best under realizing

TELEPHONE BONDS ADVANCE 7 POINTS

INDUSTRIALS ARE DULL

New York, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—An extreme gain of more than 7 points in American Telephone convertible 4½s on an enormous turnover enlivened today's slightly firmer bond market. Prices in the general list were still scrambled, but investment issues of high rating showed better resistance than in recent sessions.

The trading in the telephone company bond was the largest since last summer, reaching a total of more than $5,400,000, principal amount. The debenture soared to 159¾ and closed at 158¼, following the stock into new high ground for the year. The net advance was 6⅛ points.

International Telephone 4½ per cent convertibles displayed considerable activity, climbing to 123 and finishing at 122½ for a gain of 1¾. American International 5½s and Texas Corporation 5s, among the other share feature bonds, found a moderately busy market. The attention paid to issues of this type, especially the telephones, was reminiscent of the trading six months ago when convertibles constituted large percentages of the daily volume.

Some U. S. Issues Gain.

United States Government Securities moved irregularly, but most of the selling in this group appeared to have evaporated and several issues made net gains. French Republic obligations were quiet on the news of the political crisis. The 7½s lost half a point, but the 7s remained unchanged. On the whole, the foreign group moved higher, with gains of 1 to 3 points in Bulgaria 7s, Berlin City Electric 6½s, Argentine 6s (October) Australia 5s, Finland 5½s and Bremen 7s. German Republic 7s were active, but advanced only a shade. Tokyo Electric Light 6s were taken in large blocks for a rise of ¾.

The high grade domestic rails were mixed, but the day's variations proved to be mostly inconsequential. Delaware & Hudson 4s, Missouri Kansas Texas first 4s, Virginian 5s, West Shore 4s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and two of the Baltimore & Ohio divisional bonds made fair improvement, but the more active issues moved quietly.

Utilities Average Higher.

Utilities averaged higher under the leadership of American Telephone 5s of 1965, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s (May), International Telephone 5s and North American Edison 5½s. Industrials were dull but steady.

The first of several pending municipal loans was awarded today. Toronto sold to a syndicate a $5,590,000 loan bearing 4½s and 5 per cent coupons, maturing 1930 to 1959, on a bid of 97.597. The bonds are being offered tomorrow on a 5 per cent basis for all maturities.

Other new offerings for Wednesday include the Shawinigan Water & Power Co. $15,000,000 additional issue of first and collateral trust 5s at 98 and a $2,500,000 issue of Valspar Corporation ten-year 6 per cent convertible debentures at 98½.

BANKERS' TRAINING PROVES CRASH AID

Roberts, in Radio Speech, Says Courses Helped in Meeting Stock Break.

BANQUET ON SATURDAY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The masterful way in which our banking institutions met the recent stock market emergency was due in a large measure to American Institute of Banking training, according to I. J. Roberts, assistant cashier, Riggs National Bank, and local institute official, speaking last night over WMAL on "Thirty Years of Progess Through the American Institute of Banking."

"Never before," he said, "has the world witnessed such radical changes in the fields of banking and finance. Never before has there been such widespread interest on the part of the general public in questions of finance. This was intensified by the recent break in the stock market and by the wonderful manner in which our banking institutions met the emergency.

"That the bankers were able to cope so successfully with the situation was due in large measure to the fact that for the past 30 years the American Institute of Banking has been conducting a systematic course of instruction in the principles of banking, law and economics for the purpose of training bank employees in the fundamentals of their chosen profession. As a matter of fact, thousands of our most prominent bank executives who have borne the burden of solving the complicated problems arising during these critical times are glad to give credit to the institute for the training they received through its study courses."

F. G. Addison, jr., Is Also Speaker.

Francis G. Addison, jr., vice president, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, another speaker on the WMAL program, arranged in connection with the institute's national "publicity week," urged his listeners to consider investments, but be sure to investigate them.

"Investments," he explained, "are a proved and recognized way of putting your money to very good use, and of increasing its earning power. But keep in mind the fact that to invest successfully takes special knowledge, long experience, continual study and trained judgment. Remember also that although you yourself may not have this knowledge and experience and training, they are at your service through banks and established investment houses. They are there for your use when you want to invest, and you will be wise in using them. Never hesitate to consult your banker. Investigate before you invest."

More than 800 persons, including many out-of-town guests from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond, Norfolk, Roanoke and other Eastern cities will attend the twenty-sixth annual banquet of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the Willard Hotel Saturday evening, at 6:30 o'clock.

A. E. Henze, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., president of the chapter, will preside and the invocation will be delivered by the Rev. W. W. Shearer. The guest of honor and principal speaker will be W. Joseph Evans, of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, Tex., national president. Wilmer J. Waller, president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, and Henry H. McKee, chairman of the Washington Clearing House Association, will bring a message of greetings from their respective organizations.

Reception Committee Members.

On the reception committee will be many of Washington's prominent bankers, among whom are George O. Walson, president of Liberty National Bank; John Poole, president of Federal-American Bank; George W White, president of National Metropolitan Bank; Victor B. Deyber, president of Second National Bank, and W. W. Spaid, member of the firm of W. B. Hibbs & Co., all past presidents of Washington Chapter.

This annual party has always been the outstanding social event among local bankers and brings together more members of the banking profession than any other single affair of such nature.

Mergenthaler Linotype Co. directors, meeting yesterday in New York, declared a regular dividend of $1.50 and an extra dividend of 25 cents per share payable March 31, to stockholders of record March 5.

Charles B. Rollins, formerly of Stein Bros. & Boyce, is now associated with the Washington office of E. H. Rollins & Sons. Mr. Rollins is a member of the Bond Club of Washington and has been with Stein Bros. & Boyce for the past five years. A native of Virginia, he will cover Virginia territory for his new firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Friends of higher prices regained their grip today after wheat, corn, oats and rye had all suffered breakdowns to the lowest level yet this season. Word that 1,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been purchased today for shipment to Europe, the first amount taken from North America in a long time, had much to do with bringing about the price rallies. Brisk buying of Chicago wheat future deliveries was also done, market leaders looking bold because of confidence in ability of the Federal Farm Board's stabilization measures to offset results of a temporary apparent world surplus of wheat.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat today were unsettled, ½ to ⅞ of a cent a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅝ to 1 cent up; oats ranging from ⅛ of a cent decline to ½ of a cent gain, and provisions showing 5 to 17 cents setback.

Headlong rushes to sell wheat and other grain here witnessed here when trading began. The general collapse of cereals to the lowest prices both of the day and the entire season quickly ensued, the main influence for the moment being knowledge that wheat quotations in Argentina and Great Britain had fallen overnight much more than looked for. Inferences were drawn that Argentina and Canada in particular were in a struggle for whatever export business was available, and that European countries were seeking to obtain further advantages from fast widening competition.

Buying of Chicago future deliveries of wheat, however, speedily broadened on the downward swings of the market, and subsequently price fluctuations, though numerous and sharp, took on more and more an upward course. This was especially the case after one of the principal houses in the Chicago grain trade issued a statement pointing out that United States farm aid plans had been designed to meet just such a contingency as a world surplus of wheat, and that although the present situation is apparently a crucial test surprisingly little liquidation in United States markets had developed, notwithstanding prices elsewhere had been collapsing.

Late announcement that the world's visible supply of wheat showed 2,656,000 bushels decrease for the week was of further aid as a rallying influence as the day drew to an end.

Wives of Tomorrow
By FRANCES M'DONALD

Why Do Women Marry.

CAN you answer this one? "Quinta" wants to know why women marry? Quinta, by the way, has not married, yet. So she feels the natural superiority of the women who have survived man's deadliness and preserved aloofness and serenity. Read Quinta's perfectly delectable letter and answer this modern maiden, if you can!

Dear Miss McDonald—You seem such a paragon of wisdom (Minerva herself could hardly do better) I would like to put just one small question to you. You say "Almost all men marry for love while women marry for any one of several good reasons." So my question to you is this: please tell us why women marry? For years I have been asking myself as I gaze upon the poor deluded portion of my sex who have embarked upon the choppy sea of matrimony.

"So far as I can see a woman loses her looks, her ambition, her sense of humor and her friends when she marries. The girls I know skimp and save and cook and sew and are rewarded by having a Mrs. tacked on their name. I have two sisters married. One tells me to get married, as I will regret it to my dying day if I do not. The other was always a truthful soul. She says "Stay single; if I were back in a neat, quiet office again with nothing to worry me except which hat I would wear on my next day, I would know enough to be satisfied." She married at 22, gave up a small job at $20 a week to marry a fellow who looks scared to death, never speaks unless spoken to and squeezes a penny till it looks like a dime. She has two children who are pop-eyed like their father, and have dispositions they never brought from heaven. One or the other is always being disciplined for something while the father looks on like a mountain goat, in perfect silence. They have a nice home, car, and maid, but never go anywhere, or entertain. Just eat, sleep and spank the kids.

My older sister does all her own work, has four terrible children, the loud, healthy kind that are always bursting out of their clothes and demanding food. Their father is rather a nice sort. Very fond of my mother and always doing things for all of us. But I would not be seen even in church with him, much less married to him. He owns a garage and will be well-off some day. But I confess I'd rather die as I am than find myself in the grave with him or anyone like him.

I was only a kid when my sisters married, so I did not know what made them do it, but it could not be that anyone as good looking as either of them would be swept in a gale of blazing love by either of my brothers-in-law. They used to dress well, but you should see them now. If their gloves are new their shoes are old. Alway, something to yell "I'm a young married woman and this is last year's wardrobe."

Now for myself. I am 28 years old, have a good job, a cute boss (married) and three boy friends ranging in age from 27 to 41. I have a wonderful time, but they know I will never marry any of them. They have asked me. And so have a few others. But no man ever asked me who was able to support me. All of them thought that two could live as cheap as one and then give money to the poor.

What would I gain by marrying? I am out three nights a week, work seven hours a day for the most gentlemanly fellow I ever met. Have $32 a week all for myself. Have money in bank and in the building and loan. Am healthy, happy and full of pep. Will you tell me in Heaven's name why I should get married. Will you tell me, why any woman does? "QUINTA."

Now, for the answers—Why especially do we do it a second and a third time after the most disheartening experiences possible? Is it because there is some particular sense of being the center of the universe to somebody, however pop-eyed he may appear to the disinterested bystander? Is it perhaps that old nature tells us neatly with that age-old call to mate and find a cave all of our own to hold against all comers?

We admit to feeling much as Quinta does. When we see some harassed-looking young mother trying to get four children on a street car in the rush hour, we wonder whether there is anything that can compensate her for the strain of being mother to four children with holes in their stockings and front teeth out.

And then we remember a sunny day when we were one of five children playing in a garden while a blue-eyed girl who was mother looked down from a bedroom window. At sight of her we all ran scrambling to ask what she was doing. "I am counting my blessings, darlings, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5," said the girl whose eyes were heaven blue and whose smile was the smile of an angel.

It may be something like that, Quinta, dear; who knows? Can anybody tell us, really?

GROUP IN ARLINGTON HEARS B. M. HEDRICK

No Changes Can Be Made in Magisterial Districts, Says Supervisor.

RADIO BOOST TALK SET

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association held last night in the clubhouse, B. M. Hedrick, member of the County Board of Supervisors from Arlinton district, stated that in accordance with the State constitution there could be no changes made in the area of either of the three magisterial districts despite the fact that more than half of Jefferson district has been annexed to the City of Alexandria. He stated further that all of the three districts are now below the provisions of the law as far as square mileage is concerned.

Discussing the distribution of the $500,000 received from the City of Alexandria as a financial settlement in the recent annexation proceedings, Supervisor Hedrick said that other than the appropriation of $6,400 for the purchase of land and building for the Community Health Center to replace the one lost to Alexandria, no definite plan for its further distribution has been determined upon.

"One tentative plan which provides first to determine the total cost of the suit to the county, a division for schools and for roads has been discussed; and County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, County School Superintendent Fleacher Kemp, and Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth have been directed to make a study of a division along these lines and report to the board.

"As far as the proposed plan for a distribution for roads is concerned suggesting that all of the funds be expended in the district, I am opposed to it," he said. "Suppose the district had been reduced to one acre and $1,000,000 had been collected, could it all be spent on that one acre? I can't see the plan in that light.

"As far as the school building is concerned that is up to the school board. I regret that at a recent meeting the board went on record as recommending that a high school be built in Jefferson district to replace the George Mason now in Alexandria. I did not vote as I was fully informed as to the needs.

"I favor the building of an addition to the present elementary school in Jefferson district sufficient to take care of classes up to and including the Junior High School, but with only 47 pupils now attending the Washington-Lee High School from that district, another accredited high school could not be maintained and it would not be fair to the citizens of that district," Mr. Hedrick said in conclusion.

H. L. Kirby, now a resident of Arlington County, who is president of the Wyoming-Montana Railroad, and the Wyoming-Montana Co., will be the principal speaker over Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., in a program sponsored by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce to be given today from 5 to 6 o'clock. Mr. Kirby will take as his subject "Arlington County, a Part of the Greater Washington Metropolitan Area Overlooking the Nation's Capital; Its Present and Future Advantages and Opportunities."

The program will include musical numbers to be given by the glee clubs of the Washington-Lee Junior and Senior High Schools under the direction of Miss Madeline Whitlock, accompanied by Mrs. M. Mallott; a musical reading by Miss Maxien Cardwell, entitled "It Takes a Heap of Living in a House to Make It Home."

C. A. Keefer, member of the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, will be master of ceremonies and the official announcer.

With the opening of the February term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday, Judge Howard W. Smith was confronted with deciding the question of court jurisdiction over cases filed in the local court by persons in the territory which has been recently annexed by the City of Alexandria before annexation became effective.

The question was formally brought before the court through a suit for damages filed by Henri de Shiell Wright, who is now, due to annexation, a resident of the City of Alexandria, against the county board of supervisors for injuries sustained when stepping into an alleged break in the road when alighting from a bus in May of last year.

Attorney Richard Washington appeared for the City of Alexandria while Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth represented the county's interest.

Mr. Gloth stated that he will file a demurrer to the suit today and looks for a dismissal of the case.

The decision in the matter, which is being looked upon with much interest and which will affect a number of cases now pending by the members of the local bar, is expected to be given today by Judge Smith.

Judge Smith will conduct divorce court today hearing all cases in open court. The session opens at 10 o'clock.

The Woman's Club, of Lyon Park, will give a benefit dinner tomorrow night in the Community House from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Plans for the luncheon to be given by the Parent-Teachers Association of the James Monroe School Friday from 12 to 2:30 were completed at the committee meeting held yesterday at the schoolhouse.

Following the luncheon, the monthly meeting of the association will be held. Mrs. John Walcott announced last night that at this meeting she will announce committee appointments for all the standing committees to carry on the year's work.

The Arlington County Monarch Club holds its weekly meeting tomorrow at 12 o'clock at the Ashton Height's Woman's Clubhouse, Clarendon avenue. President A. B. Honts will preside.

With plans being rapidly completed for the annual banquet to be given the night of March 4 by the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department in the auditorium of its hall, General Chairman Robert E. Janson last night announced the appointment of the following committees to have charge of the detailed arrangements: Invitations—John A. Spates, chairman; William D. Topley and Ernest Rauth, jr.; entertainment—E. C. Johnson, chairman; Richard Leigh and Frank Tucker; speakers—Reese O'Neil, chairman; John A. Spates, C. C. Donaldson and Luther W. Strobel; ushers—Arthur Kidwell, chairman; decorations—Paul Tyson, chairman; Stanley Mortimore, Walter Marcey, John Neib and Franklin Williams; reception—Robert E. Janson, chairman; to be assisted by former chiefs of the department; and erection of tables—T. F. Horner, chairman, and John A. Spates.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club with the president, Dr. Richard N. Sutton, presiding.

Miss Margaret Lusby, of Ballston, who was rushed to the Georgetown Hospital yesterday, was reported as resting comfortably last night.

Raymond Crack, traffic officer of Arlington County, who suffered a pistol shot wound last Wednesday when in pursuit of an alleged rumrunner, was reported as greatly improved at the Alexandria Hospital last night.

A musical concert will be given tonight in the Ballston Christian Church, Wilson boulevard, at 8 o'clock by a group from the Washington College of Music under the direction of Mrs. Betty Gray. Mrs. Gray also will sing a number of solos. Miss Katherine Benson will accompany at the piano.

Announcement was made last night that the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department will participate in the parade to be held at Alexandria Saturday as a part of the George Washington Birthday celebration.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County will hold its monthly dinner meeting tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Kathleen M. Cohen, president, will preside.

Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, will hold a benefit 500 and bridge party tonight at the Boulevard Bakery, Clarendon, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will go to the drum and bugle corps of the post.

VIRGINIA CREATES NEW GYPSUM MART

CORPORATION IS FORMED

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Creation of a market for anhydrous gypsum, heretofore useless, has followed the discovery by R. H. Hurt, assistant plant pathologist of the Virginia agricultural experiment station, that calcium sulphide is an effective fungicide for both apples and peaches, Dr. S. A. Wingard, head of the plant pathology departm it, reported today to Dr. A. W. Drinkard, jr., director of the experiment station. Mr. Hurt also recently found that certain waste products from paper mills may be used cheaply by orchardists as an effective spray.

Since calcium sulphide has come into use as a fungicide, Dr. Wingard reported, there has been formed a corporation at Damascus, Va., for the purpose of manufacturing the fungicide on a large scale. It expects to produce this year about 2,000,000 pounds of calcium sulphide for spraying purposes. This amount of material, it was said, would do about 10 per cent of the spraying in Virginia.

What is considered the most economical and best method of making calcium sulphide is to reduce anhydrous gypsum with carbon, the gypsum being considered worthless to the industry because it can not be used in making plaster board and similar products. After the powdered material has been heated to between 1,000 and 2,000 degrees, it is removed, ground to a fine powder, screened and bagged. It is then ready to be dumped into a spray tank and applied as a fungicide.

Until Mrs. Hurt's discovery gypsum companies had no desire to mine the anhydrous calcium sulphate because it was useless in manufacturing, it was revealed, as it requires approximately 4,000,000 pounds of anhydrous calcium sulphate and at least 1,000,000 pounds of coal to manufacture 2,000,000 pounds of calcium sulphide. An enormous market for an otherwise useless product is predicted when this material comes into general use as a fungicide through the apple and peach sections of the United States. Already the first carload of the material has been ordered by Oregon orchardists.

Calcium sulphide as a compound has long been used in a small way chemically, and records show that this material has been manufactured on a minor scale for at least 200 years, it was stated. The first method said to be known of making calcium sulphide was by heating powdered oyster shells and sulphur in closed containers

COMMITTEE HEARS HILL PLEA FOR SEAT

House Elections Group Ends Hearing on Contest Over Palmisano Victory.

FRAUD CHARGE IS MADE

(Associated Press.)

A House elections committee yesterday completed hearings on arguments in the contested election case of John Philip Hill, Republican, against Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, Democrat, for the seat from the Third Congressional District of Maryland.

The committee adjourned to meet on the call of the chairman, probably within the next few days, to consider the case in executive session.

Hill's Lawyer Silent.

Mr. Hill's attorney, Charles Ruzicka, sat silent throughout the day, merely making an occasional whispered suggestion to his clinet between arguments.

Several times Mr. Palmisano's attorney, Robert E. Leach, complained to the committee that Mr. Hill's tactics were "not lawyer-like," and that his unusual methods of procedure was "for the purpose of confusing the issue."

Mr. Leach objected especially to Mr. Hills presentation of "27 proved points" Monday and "8 more proved points" yesterday, all purporting to show fraud in Mr. Palmisano's home precinct, the Fourth Precinct of the Third Ward, Baltimore. Mr. Palmisano's attorney complained he was given no copies of these exhibits to which he would be entitled under legal courtesy, and attributed it to Mr. Hill's "policy of coloring and muddling the case."

Alleged Illegalities Cited.

From the huge volume of printed testimony of the Hill-Palmisano case, as heard in Maryland, Mr. Hill read statements of witnesses to corroborate his claim that Mr. Palmisano, himself a candidate, had charge of his entire home ward on election day. In that capacity, Mr. Hill said, citing testimony, Mr. Palmisano was in his home precinct polling place between three and four hours, directing the election in an illegal manner.

Mr. Leach replied that the committee should not give credence to the "hysterical testimony" of the witnesses presented by Mr. Hill.

To Mr. Hill's charge that two convicts on parole voted in the Palmisano home precinct, Mr. Leach replied that so far as Maryland law was concerned, they were entitled to vote since their crimes had not been of a nature that would have disfranchised them.

Final Pleas Are Made.

Mr. Leach also maintained that the ten registered voters from Mr. Palmisano's own home all had a right to claim it as a legal residence, denying Mr. Hill's assertion that several fraudulent votes had come from Mr. Palmisano's home.

At one point in his argument Mr. Hill charged that his opponent's "agents" had persuaded an unidentified old man to vote under a dead man's name in the Third Precinct of the Fifth Ward. This, he said, was revealed by a newspaper reporter.

On the basis of the alleged fraud, Mr. Hill asked the committee to adjudge him rightfully elected. Mr. Leach made a final plea, protesting that Mr. Palmisano's election was rightful and honest.

Virginian Gets 90 Days for Assault

Assaulter of University Student Faces Other Indictments.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 18.—Garland W. Falwell will serve 90 days and pay a fine of $100 for common assault upon Gus B. Wiltshire, of Martinsburg, W. Va., a Washington and Lee University student, when he withdrew his effort to secure an appeal from a two-year sentence in the Corporation Court of Lynchburg, and four other indictments pending against him in the Lynchburg court will be disposed of by nolle prosequi.

Such are the terms of a compromise entered into today at recess at the Circuit Court of Campbell County, after Judge Don P. Halsey denied a motion of defense to quash the indictment pending there against Falwell.

Wiltshire and two fellow students and three girls from Randolph Macon Women's College here went, on October 27, to a filling station. While there Wiltshire was assaulted by Falwell with a pop bottle and a pocket knife. Falwell followed the youth, shooting until after the chase led into the city. Wiltshire claimed he was shot in the back of his head and shoulders, after he reached the city, and Falwell was convicted here and given two years on that charge.

BALL SCORES IN TILT ON VIRGINIA COLLEGE

SENATE PASSES CAT BILL

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 18.—Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington, today fought for consideration of Alexandria and Arlington County, or some other site nearby, in the establishment of a liberal arts college for women, coequal with the University of Virginia, and won at least a partial victory.

Senator Ball's bill to establish a new commission was stricken from the calendar when the Halsey commission continuance bill was passed, but that bill, as amended, instructed the commission, which formerly had ignored northern Virginia, to consider sites not closer to Charlottesville than 30 miles and to report to the General Assembly. The measure was advanced to its passage.

Thus have the women workers, who had hoped for college at Charlottesville, or, lacking that, a new commission to go again into the whole matter of higher education for women in the State, lost their fight for the next two years at least. The test vote was 32 to 8.

Report in 1931 Ordered.

Under the amended bill, as advanced, the Halsey commission, originally committed to placing the college at Lynchburg, Roanoke, Fredericksburg or Harrisonburg, is directed to study the situation, regardless of previous recommendations, and to make a report by December 1, 1931.

The passage of the bill will be a definite comittal on the part of the Senate to the proposition that the women of Virginia should have a college of liberal arts. Senator Ball based his attack on the fact that the Halsey commission had done but little work.

This is the end of a long wrangle over the college question except for the passage of the bill by the Senate and the House, for it is conceded that the House will put up no stern resistance.

Tomcat Bill Passes.

The Senate then relaxed itself by passing the "bob-tailed" tomcat bill, originally intended to make wandering cats a nuisance, subject to death, but amended to provide only that cats should not be turned astray, as is the custom in many county districts. The measure was passed, 17 to 13. The measure means little as amended, according to game protectionists who promoted the original bill.

A resolution by Senator W. Worth Smith, jr., to name a commission to study the salaries of various departments was referred to the general laws committee. The House courts of justice committee reported favorably the Senate bill that would make the securing of money by means of a bad check a misdemeanor or felony, depending on whether it were for more or less than $50. It would allow the making good of a check within five days.

The Lesner automobile bills will come up for final hearing tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and many traffic experts, hopeful of averting the predicted death of the measures, are to be present to discuss their merits.

While the House was killing the Dovall bill, to change the charter of Norfolk to allow for Democratic primaries for city officers, and proponents of the boxing bill were winning at least a temporary victory, it trampled to death the worked-over small-loan act, which had been so amended beyond recognition that even its sponsor, Delegate J. Vaughan Gary, Richmond, voted against it.

The weekly session of the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday was adjourned at noon in respect for the memory of Commissioner Charles Albert Marden, of Oxon Hill, who died Sunday. Only necessary business was transacted. The board attended the funeral yesterday afternoon in a body.

Commissioner Marden died suddenly while pumping water for the live stock on his farm at Oxon Hill. He apparently had been in excellent health and had not complained of any illness. Death was pronounced due to heart attack by Dr. W. S. Ritchie. Commissioner Marden was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Commissioner T. B.
